BURIED ALIVE IN GRAIN

SIXTEEN SUFFOCATED IN WARSAW

BREWERY STORE COLLAPSE

Warsaw, Nov. 13.

Eighteen persons were killed and several others injured last night when a Warsaw brewery building collapsed.

In the premises were stored about one hundred and fifty tons of grain. The weight proved too much for the building, which collapsed with a roar, crashing on an adjoining house, which was also demolished.

The casualties occurred in the house. There were thirty-one persons sleeping inside when the brewery building collapsed, and very few escaped death or injury. Two were killed by falling masonry.

TERRIBLE FATE.

Sixteen suffered a still more terrible fate. Left alive after the collapse, they were buried in the mass of grain and suffocated to death before they could fight their way out or before rescue work was possible. Several others only narrowly escaped the same fate.—Reuter.

TYNESIDE SHIP BLAZE

CHIEF MATE GOES TO DEATH

BLUE STAR LINER DAMAGED

London, Nov. 13.

Thrilling scenes were witnessed on the Tyne last night when a fire broke out aboard the Blue Star liner, Oregon Star.

The vessel has been laid up at Hebburn for some time past, but was expected to resume service shortly. A number of Chinese sailors were sleeping on board when the outbreak occurred and they awakened to find their sleeping quarters full of smoke. All escaped.

Land fire-fighting appliances and the Tyne fire-boat were quickly on the scene pouring gallons of water into the hold which formed the seat of the blaze.

One tragedy occurred. The chief officer, early in the affair, volunteered to descend into the hold in an effort to locate the blaze. He was equipped with a gas-mask and a life-line, but he was caught in the fire and incinerated.

Considerable damage was done to the vessel before the fire was extinguished.

The Oregon Star is normally engaged on the Blue Star line's South American service, her trip being London, Boulogne, Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires and back.—Reuter.

The Oregon Star is a vessel of about 5,700 tons, being over 425 feet long. She was built at Newcastle in 1914 for the Union Cold Storage Company.

WOMAN'S BATH INTERRUPTED

ROBBERS COMPEL SILENCE

A double-barrelled gun and fifty rounds of ammunition comprised the total haul of two armed robbers who gained admittance to an unnumbered house in Ma Chouk Ling village in the Shataukok district yesterday evening.

The uninvited visitors pushed their way through the front door, which was not fastened, shortly after 7 p.m. and unceremoniously interrupted a married woman who was having a bath in the front cubicle. One man was seen armed with a revolver but the other was carrying no weapon.

The armed man pointed the revolver at the woman, Lam Chiu, aged 40, and commanded her to remain silent. The unarmed intruder went into the woman's bedroom and threw everything about but found nothing of any value. Seizing a double-barrelled gun from the wall the men then left taking also 50 rounds of ammunition.

RE-OPENING OF THE WHOLE QUESTION SOUGHT

MR. FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT INVITED TO THE WHITE HOUSE

HOOVER HUMS AND HAWS

LONDON, November 14.

THE TEXT OF THE BRITISH WAR DEBTS NOTE HANDED BY SIR RONALD LINDSAY, BRITISH AMBASSADOR IN WASHINGTON, TO THE UNITED STATES SECRETARY OF STATE ON NOVEMBER 10, HAS BEEN RELEASED FOR PUBLICATION.

Belief that the regime of inter-governmental financial obligations must be reviewed is expressed. The British Government ask that meanwhile payments of British war debt due from them be suspended and that the United States enter into an exchange of views of the measures necessary to hasten a restoration of world prosperity.

President Hoover's attitude to the request is non-committal. In an invitation to Mr. Franklin Roosevelt to visit the White House this week to discuss the situation created by the Franco-British representations, the Republican leader blows both hot and cold, while submitting that the terms of the Congress resolution against cancellation of war debts limit the scope of any negotiations upon which the United States may enter.

EXTENSION OF THE MORATORIUM BRITAIN'S CHIEF REQUEST

The full terms of the British Note are:—
"It will be remembered that on June 22nd, 1931, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom subscribed wholeheartedly to the principle of a proposal made by the President of the United States on the preceding day for the postponement during one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts. The object, as stated at the time, was to relieve the pressure of the difficulties resulting from the fall in prices and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability and to assure the establishment of confidence.

NOT REALISED.

"The hopes which were raised by the President of the United States have unfortunately not been realised and the economic troubles the moratorium was designed to alleviate have not come to an end.

"Indeed, in October of last year, a communique published at Washington on the occasion of Monsieur Laval's visit already recognised that 'prior to the expiration of the Hoover Year, some agreement on inter-governmental obligations may be necessary covering the period of business depression. The initiative in this matter should be taken early by the European powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to 15th July 1931.'

FURTHER MEASURES.

"To-day many thoughtful men throughout the world are convinced that if the depression is to be overcome, further remedial measures must be sought.

"It was in accordance with the above recommendation that in June last the European creditor powers met at Lausanne to agree on a lasting settlement of the problem created by the inter-governmental payments in respect of reparations. The statement of the agreements reached on June 9th aims at the ultimate termination of all reparations payments.

EUROPE'S CONTRIBUTION

"It represents the maximum contribution in the field of inter-governmental finance which the Governments concerned have so far been able to make towards that early restoration of world prosperity in which the people of the United States, no less than

HOOVER'S TELEGRAM TO ROOSEVELT

Joint Discussion of Issues Raised

Washington, Nov. 13.
President Hoover's attitude on war debts is outlined in a telegram which he has sent to the President-Elect, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, inviting him to confer at the White House next week on the debt problems, and other matters which he says could not wait to be settled until Mr. Roosevelt assumes office.

In the course of his message, President Hoover reiterates his opposition to any form of cancellation of the war debts of Europe, but says:

"We should be receptive to proposals from our debtors of tangible compensation in other forms than the direct payment of cash, in the expansion of markets for the products of our labour and our farms.

He adds: "A substantial reduction of world armaments which would relieve our own and the world's burdens and dangers has a bearing on this question.

LONG NEGOTIATIONS.

President Hoover says that if negotiations are undertaken, practical and detailed discussions will be necessary, which could not be concluded, he felt sure, during his administration.

Any negotiations are limited by the resolution of Congress (opposing the cancellation or reduction of war debts). If there be any change of attitude on the part of Congress, it will be greatly affected by the views of the members who recognise Mr. Roosevelt as their leader and probably desire his counsel.

COMMON GOOD.

"I am prepared," says President Hoover, "to deal with this question as far as my power permits, but it must be our common wish to deal with it constructively for the common good of our country."

Referring to the Congress resolution, President Hoover says that any commitments which the governments of Europe may have made between themselves, could not, therefore, be based upon any assurances from the United States.

BEYOND TERMS.

Moreover, the tenor of the negotiations asked for by the debtors goes beyond the terms of the resolution in which limitation to purely individual action in regard to those incapable of pay-

THE FRENCH NOTE CONSENT TO HEAVY SACRIFICES.

Paris, Nov. 14.

The French Note to the United States follows very much the same lines as the British.

The French Government asks for an extension of the moratorium and for the re-opening of the whole of the debt question, expressing the view that such action would have an excellent effect on the world monetary crisis.

The Note recalls that the French Government have already voluntarily consented to extremely heavy sacrifices at Lausanne, but declares that financial difficulties in Europe are hindering the resumption of normal international relations.

IN INTERESTS OF ALL.

Persistence in a fresh effort to put an end to the financial problems of the world is necessary in the interests of all concerned.

The Note affirms France's attitude at the Lausanne and Stresa Conferences and guarantees her active interest in speedy economic restoration of Europe.

It is in this spirit, says the communication, that France proposes a fresh examination of the war debts question and in view of the time which must be taken, France asks for a prolongation of the suspension of payments so that the examination of the grave problems at present in suspense may be completed in an atmosphere of confidence.—Reuter.

ment during the period of the depression was evident.

Referring to the moratorium, President Hoover says that European nations have made very substantial progress during the year in financial adjustments between themselves and towards the reduction of armaments.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Referring to other important questions to be discussed at next week's conference, President Hoover says:

"The building of a world of economic stability is most important in building up our own recovery."

The World Economic Conference is to be held in the course of the coming winter and whilst this conference may be begun during my administration, it certainly will not have completed its labours until you have assumed office.

A parallel to this situation is presented by the Disarmament Conference in which the United States is taking a leading part. This also has a great economic purpose as well as the advance-

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, who arrived in Hangchow yesterday, having made the journey from Hankow by plane, is holding a conference with Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, presumably in connexion with the finances of North China.

It is reported that as a result of the recent discussions at Hankow, it has been decided that Marshal Chiang Hsueh-liang be given a free hand in dealing with the affairs of North China, also that there will be no change in the composition of the Government.

On Marshal Chang's return to Peking, a military conference of all his subordinate generals will be held to discuss problems of defence.—Reuter.

THE BONUS ARMY ON MARCH

RETURN TO INVASION OF WASHINGTON

ADVANCE GUARD ARRIVES

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 14.

A fresh invasion of Washington by the bonus marchers is in prospect, according to messages from the United States capital announcing that over 2,500 ex-Servicemen have already arrived.

It appears that they represent merely the advance party.

The plans of the Bonus Marchers are said to embrace the massing of as many ex-Servicemen in Washington as can be got together between now and December 16, when Congress enters upon its new session prior to its retirement in March.

FIVE THOUSAND MARCHING.

Five thousand, in addition to the first arrivals, are now reported to be on their way, carrying banners which indicate that they again propose to demonstrate to press their demand for the immediate payment of the war bonus.

Up to the moment, the authorities have taken no action in the matter, but fears of a repetition of the trouble of the late summer are already entertained.

COLLISION CASE AGAIN

N.Y.K. SEEK APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL

An application for special leave to appeal to the Privy Council against the Chief Justice's judgment in the Toyoko Maru—Kiangsu collision case, was made in the Supreme Court this morning.

The collision took place off Kowloon Dock Point in a fog last year. The N.Y.K. sued the China Navigation Company for $40,554 damages, and the C.N.C. counter-claimed for $40,000. Judgment was given for the owners of the N.Y.K. ship.

The N.Y.K. are seeking leave to appeal to the Privy Council against this decision.

CAPTAIN WEBSTER PASSES AWAY

Capt. John Webster, a former master who has, for the past two years, been without employment and on and off a patient of the Government Civil Hospital, died at that institution last night shortly after 8 o'clock.

Except that the late officer resided at 47, Li Tung Street little is known of him. He was an elderly man and had served on several of the waterfront steamers plying between Hongkong and other coastal ports.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Tournament players have many troubles—and, as with everyone else, some of them never happen.An amusing incident occurred recently in a Team-of-Four championship in which Mr. P. H. Sims caused himself a lot of unnecessary anguish. Sims held the East hand and his partner in the West was Edward Hynes, Jr.

The Bidding.

South was the dealer and, of course, passed. West also passed and North opened with one heart.
Sims overcalled with two diamonds and Hynes in the West bid two no trump, which was promptly doubled by North. East and West were vulnerable and Mr.
Sims feared he was in for a bad set.

The Play.

North's opening lead was the ace of hearts and after laying down his hand as dummy, Sims took one look at the North hand to see just how bad the slaughter would be.During the game he usually has a glass of a soft drink at his elbow and after one glimpse at North's rock-crushers he became so perturbed that he upset the glass over cards, players and kibitzers alike.Tournament ethics prevented him from expressing his opinion of his partner's bid, but if thought could have produced any effect, Hynes would have shrivelled to a crisp.The confusion lasted several minutes and Hynes was the only one who did not appear upset. The cards were dried off as well as possible and when the players finally resumed their seats, he calmly proceeded with his play of the hand.
North led the ace, king and queen of hearts, followed by the king of clubs, to show his partner a sure entry in that suit if South should ever be in the lead.He then led another heart.
Hynes won with the jack and ran off five diamond tricks.This left each player with three cards. Hynes kept the ace and deuce of spades and the queen of clubs, while North was obliged to discard all of his hearts, and held only the ace of clubs and the king and ten of spades.Dummy's three remaining cards were the queen and eight of spades and the jack of clubs. At the tenth trick, Hynes led the jack of clubs from dummy. North won with the ace, and was obliged to return a spade which gave the declarer the two remaining tricks.It was Sims' turn to feel sheepish, and South's turn to criticize his partner for allowing two no trump to be made when holding all the cards in the deck.After heated discussion, South was unable to point out a way by which North could have defeated the contract.Hynes sat by with a slightly bored attitude, as though making two no trump without high cards was a perfectly routine matter with him, and finally suggested that they proceed with the next hand.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

FUNCTION OF THE KWAI
YOUNG'S INSTITUTEThe Kwai Young's Institute of Typewriting and Shorthand held its first graduation ceremony in the Hall of Hop Yat Chuen, Don-nam Road, on Saturday evening.
There was a large attendance consisting of Chinese and foreigners, who witnessed the presentation of certificates and prizes to the successful students by Mr.
Mox Ying-kwai.Mr. Mox in the course of his speech paid a tribute to the institute of its excellent performance. Mr. T. Kwai Young, the principal, thanked Mr. Mox for his kind presence, which, he went on to say, was very encouraging.
The Principal in presenting his report said that the institute was established in May last, and its present success is partly due to the valuable advice and assistance given by Messrs. Wong
Kwong-tin, Mox Ying-kwai, Ho
Sai-leung, Lim Hoi-lan, Tam Pak-shiu and Chung Ching-tin from time to time.The number of students who enrolled for the typewriting course was 36. Two examinations were held on August 10, and November 1. For these examinations 19 candidates sat, 18 of whom were successful. In the Elementary stage, Chen Shu-ki
the first boy, passed with a good speed of 51 net words a minute and Pong Tak-ming the second one, with 50 net words a minute.
In the advanced stage, Gussy
Joseph Lau attained a speed of 64 net words a minute and Chee
Sik-yeo came next with a speed of 60 net words a minute.The method employed in teaching students to type, is the Universal Touch System. The Shorthand Class though a small one, has been energetically conducted by an experienced instructor, Mr. Isaac Hassan. No pain has been spared to teach the students the fundamental principle of the system—Pitman's.The successful candidates in the senior examination were as follows:Gussy Joseph Lau (64 net words per minute), Tse Sik-yeo (60), Chan King-sang (60), Chan Ka-muk (60).The following were successful in the junior examination:Chen Shu-ki (61 net words per minute), Yau Yuen-ham (46), Chung Ching-ling (41), Chen
Kwok-wah (32), Chung Chai-yung (30), Leong Wang-hong (30), Pao Ching (33), Lee Weigung (32), Kam King-shing (31), Ho Cheung-kwong (30), Yuen Man-chi (30), To Shue-wing (30), Leung Kit-chuen (34).Contract Bridge hands published in your evening editions, but I cannot help remarking on the hand by W.E. McKenney in your final edition of 7th inst."In this case I would definitely state that West played very faulty bridge in failing to double South's psychic bid of four Diamonds, holding a single Club, five diamonds to three honours, and a King and Queen of Heart. The double would have forced North to take his partner out into Four Spades, and South to return to Four No
Trumps. In view of having 150 aces and strong Clubs and Spades.
This would have saved West a double, two tricks and a little Slam.""I should like Mr. McKenney's remarks on this.—C.H.R."C.H.R. will recall that the introductions paragraphs contained an explanation as follows: "Even the finest players err at times and when they do it is apt to prove very costly." South's psychic or bluff bid was completely successful.
It deceived West in exactly the manner South hoped. West had sufficient judgement to realize that the final contract would be in No Trumps. Presumably he placed South with nothing less than A Q x x in Diamonds and did not double to avoid disclosing where the remaining high cards in this suit lay.

CHARITY CARNIVAL

SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION AT PENINSULA HOTELThe spirit of carnival was well sustained at the Peninsula Hotel on Saturday night, and the fancy dress dinner dance to swell the funds of the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society resulted in a brilliant success. A crowd estimated at nearly 400 gathered in the roof garden and Rose Room in the cause of charity, and enjoyed an excellent dinner and varied programme of entertainment.The dinner tables were laid out in the roof garden, and at the conclusion of the dinner the big crowd adjoined to the dancing floor of the Rose Room, where the music was supplied by Dick Loutorio's band and the hotel waiters orchestra.A group of talented artistes provided the entertainment, and generously responded to the big crowd's demand for encores. Among the artistes was Mrs. R. Ferrajolo, wife of the Italian Consul-General, who displayed a tuneful soprano in a couple of dainty vocal numbers.
Madame H. Klein proved herself a very finished ballet dancer in a delightful number.The popular pair Hugo and Josephine, who have been appearing at the Peninsula Hotel recently, also added to the entertainment with several ball-room exhibitions.After midnight, the clever Joy Fun Toy troupe of Chinese acrobats and jugglers brought along their paraphernalia and gave a couple of the entertaining turns that have made them so popular with Hongkong. The big crowd continued the festivity until 2 a.m.Mrs. W. T. Southorn, wife of H.E. the Officer Administering the Government, and Patroness of the carnival, had intended to be present, but was unavoidably prevented from attending.Among those present were Sir William Hornell and Capt. and Mrs.
F. W. Webb.The Committee of the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society is highly satisfied with the success of the function, and wishes to extend its thanks and appreciation to the artistes who supplied the entertainment, including the Joy Fun Toy Troupe, to the Management of the Hotel, and all those who contributed to the success of the occasion.

DEATH OF FORMER OLD
RESIDENT OF H.K.The death has occurred at Home of Mr. William Bell Withers, formerly an Inspector in the Hongkong Police Force. News of his demise was received at the week-end, death having occurred last Thursday, November 10, at Portsmouth.The late Mr. Withers was an old resident of many years, standing, and there are probably quite a number of residents in the Colony to-day who remember him. He left Hongkong in 1916
after a spell in the Colony of no less than 29 years, having come here in 1887. He was a keen sportsman and freemason, being a member of the old Corinthian Yacht Club, the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, and a Past Master of the United Services Lodge.Mr. Withers married in England after he retired from the Colony, and leaves a widow to mourn him.
He had been ailing for the past year with bronchial and heart trouble, and for the last six months had been seriously ill, so that his end was not unexpected.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXI

Dona rode down the Blind River trail—at a brisk trot. She had undertaken a mad adventure and was enjoying it, knowing that soon enough she would have to return to reality. She would have to spend her time humoring the whims of Dudley Winters and she must see that Asper should never again go back into the wild country. She was free for a day at least. One more day. As she drank in the fragrance of the balsams, Dona told herself that now she would be able to ride down to Seth Doby's place and be married that night without the fear that had been with her for days.

A big rock jutted out almost into the trail and Dona was admiring its red pillars when two men rose from behind it. They were armed with rifles and by their dress she knew them to be timber men. It was evident that they recognized her as they made no move to halt her. Dona wondered how many of Swergin's men had been lying along the trail and she suddenly realized that grim warfare was on in the hills. She pulled in the reins and called to one of the men. "Do you work for Asper Del?"

The taller of the two grinned sourly and his reply was short. "We work for Swergin of the Timber Company."

Dona touched the reins and moved on. It was evident that Swergin was the DeLo Timber Company in the region about Three Rivers.

While she was halted talking to the men, a figure moved from behind the far end of the rocky ledge and melted into the forest. Dona did not see this figure nor did the two slow-witted guards.

On down the slope the timber closed in upon the trail and made it a brutal path when a river could barely pass without being brushed by the overhanging needles. The trail twisted and turned, taking the easiest course and avoiding the biggest trees. It was such a trail as a wise old range cow or a mule deer would make in crossing the range.

Dona rode easily and did not push her horse. She was wrapped in the spicy silence and did not want to hurry. A little clearing opened before her. It was carpeted with columbine and lupine, with here and there a gay orange daisy. Dona pulled the reins to a halt at the edge of the tiny garden and held her breath.

"A bit of Heaven?" drawled a voice at her elbow.

Dona started and turned in her saddle. She was looking into the shadowless, grey eyes of Stanley Black. His horse was hidden in the foliage beside the trail but his head and shoulders were in the open. At a glance Dona realized that Black looked leaner and harder than when she had met him in the city.

"Mr. Black!" Dona checked further exclamation. "It is beautiful, isn't it?"

"The bride rides alone into Paradise Valley." There was a hint of banter in his eyes.

Dona flushed, then smiled. "I came over the mountain to see a friend."

"You should receive a royal welcome," Stanley Black's eyes showed the admiration her slender beauty had roused.

"Do you think that friend would help me?" Dona put the question with her gaze on the lupine across the clearing.

"Beyond the question of doubt, he would," Stanley bent over the saddle horn and pulled a pine needle from a branch.

"He has a way with him," Dona smiled, "that is not always nice."

"What does he do? I can't imagine any man not being nice—"

Stanley halted as though suddenly remembering something.

"He runs away after he helps me," Dona met his eyes frankly.

Stanley Black laughed, not too clearly, but rather with a tinge of bitterness. "He is a fool," he said slowly.

"But he would help me again, don't you think?" Dona felt her heart pounding against the soft cloth of her jacket. She was sure he must see it beating.

"He would, I am sure."

Dona leaned impulsively toward him. "I am in a peck of trouble!"

"If you'll ride a little off the trail we can sit and talk," Stanley suggested. He pushed his black mare into the open and Dona followed.

The spot Stanley selected was a nook behind a slab of stone. It was shaded by towering Englemann spruce and far down from the trail.

As he rode at her side Dona noted that his chaps were worn and scratched, as though from pushing through brush and undergrowth. His big hat was frayed at the edges and he wore no glove on his right hand though the left was encased in buckskin. When he halted in the secluded spot he faced her and smiled.

"Cowboys riding black horses need to be careful in these hills," his bare hand was resting on his hip with his long fingers just touching the butt of a heavy Colt.

Dona returned his smile. "Lumberjacks are dangerous fellows to have loose, aren't they?"

"Mostly a bunch of dumb fools," he replied in all seriousness.

Dona realized as she noted the seclusion of the spot that she should have been trembling with apprehension at being alone with this strange young man in such a place.

Instead of fear she felt a sense of eagerness and trust. She slid from her horse and sat down on a mossy boulder. Stanley swung a worn chap clear of the saddle horn and sprawled at full length on the grass at her feet. He shoved his wide hat back and carefully selected a grass stem to chew.

"Now we will see what can be done," he gazed at her in open admiration.

"You know about the trouble over at Three Rivers?"

Stanley nodded.

"We just have to get rid of that man, Bull. The men are hunting him but they never can get him cornered."

nored. Do you know him?" Dona watched Stanley's face.

Not a line had changed except the corners of his mouth. His eyes looked into hers for a full second. "I know him well," he said simply.

"He must be a hardened killer,"

Dona went on. Her troubles were coming back to her and she did not notice the man's eyes cloud and his lips tighten.

"He is a pretty tough hombre. He'll always be an outlaw, I guess."

Stanley twisted the wisp of grass and broke it in two.

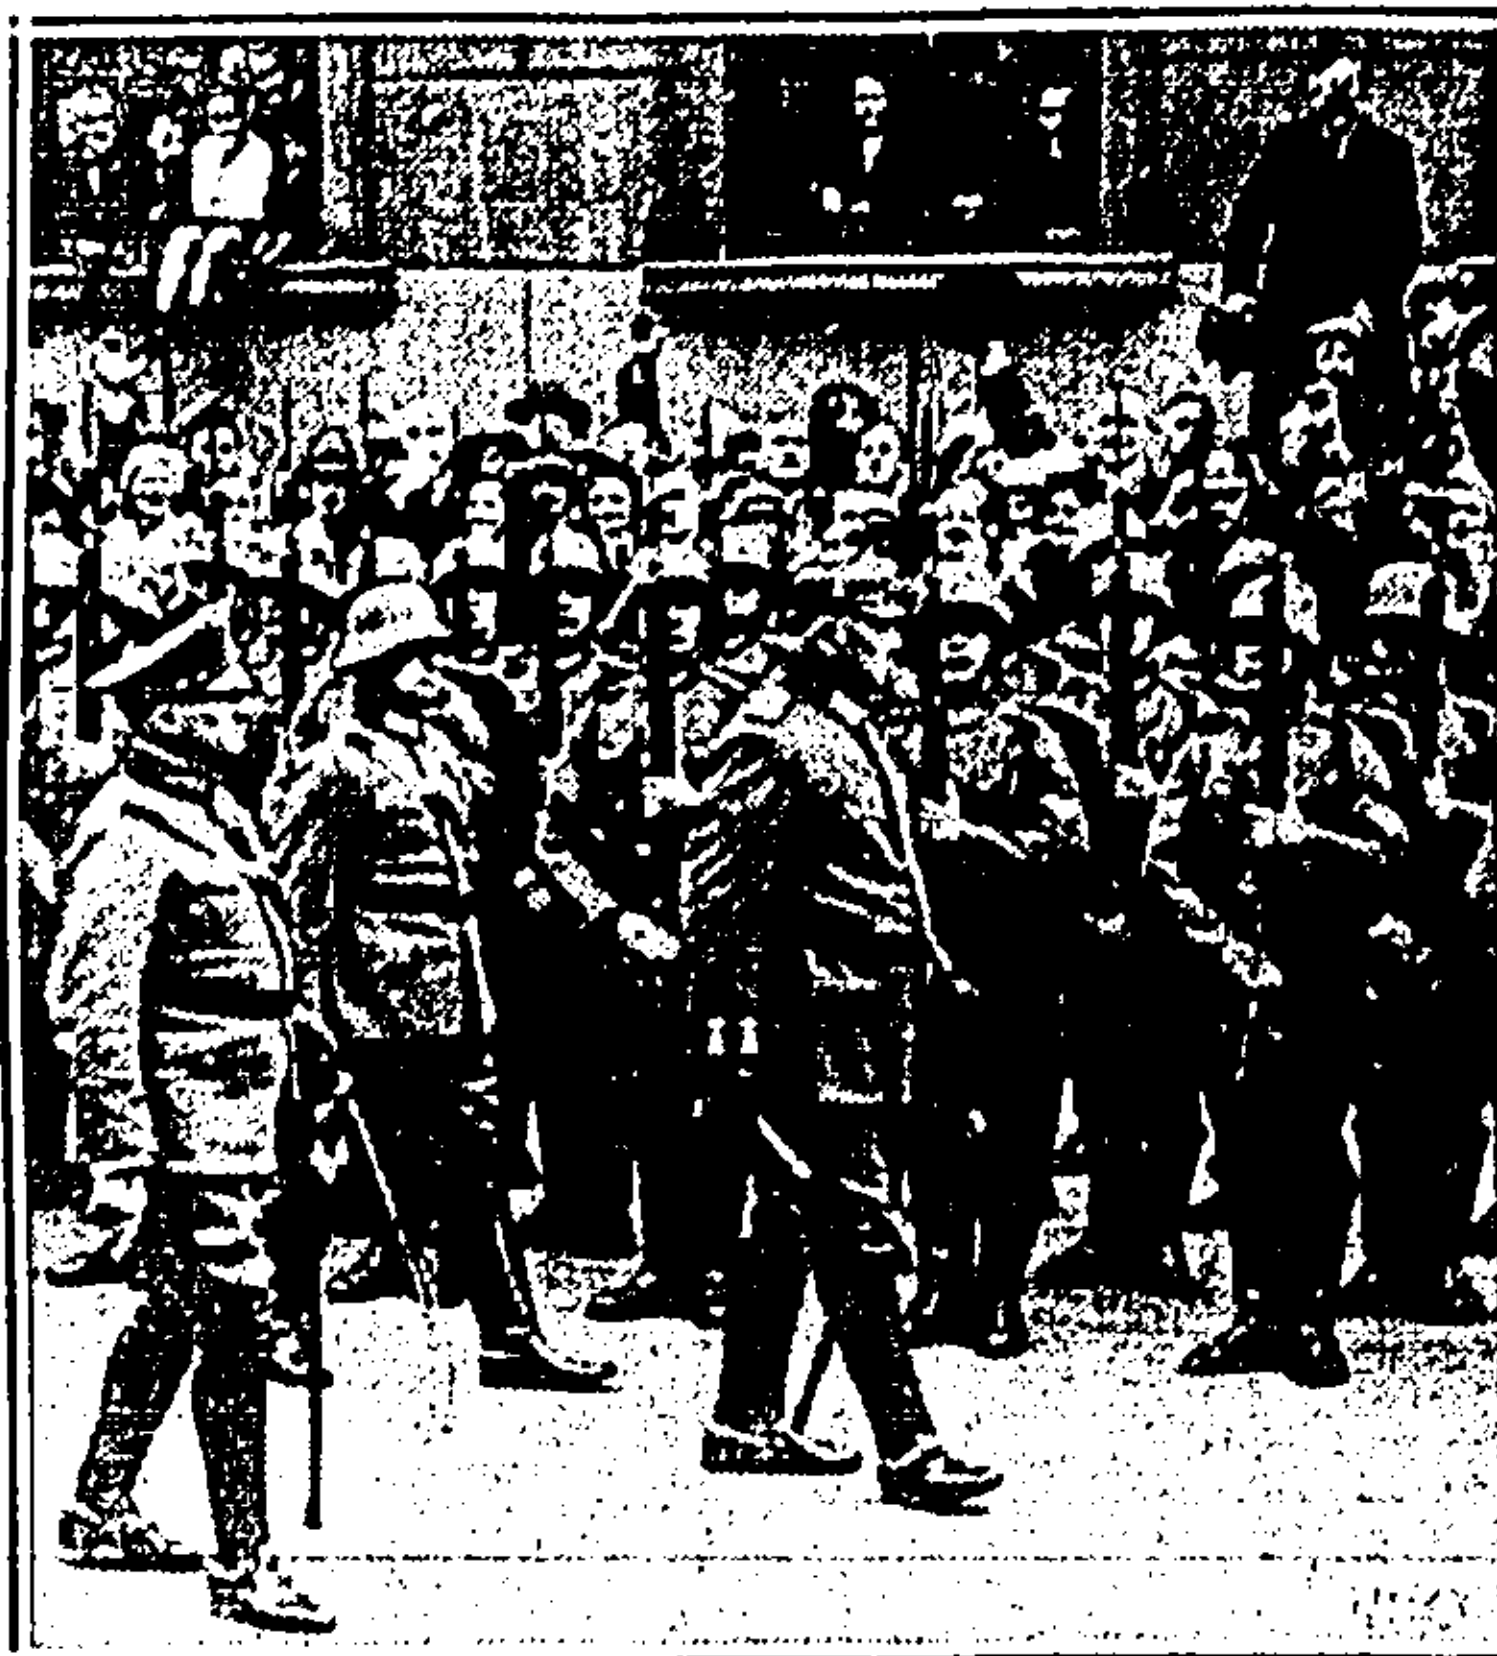

"Do you know him well enough to get him to leave Folly Mountain?"

Dona put the question eagerly. Something in Stanley Black's manner made her sure he could do just that.

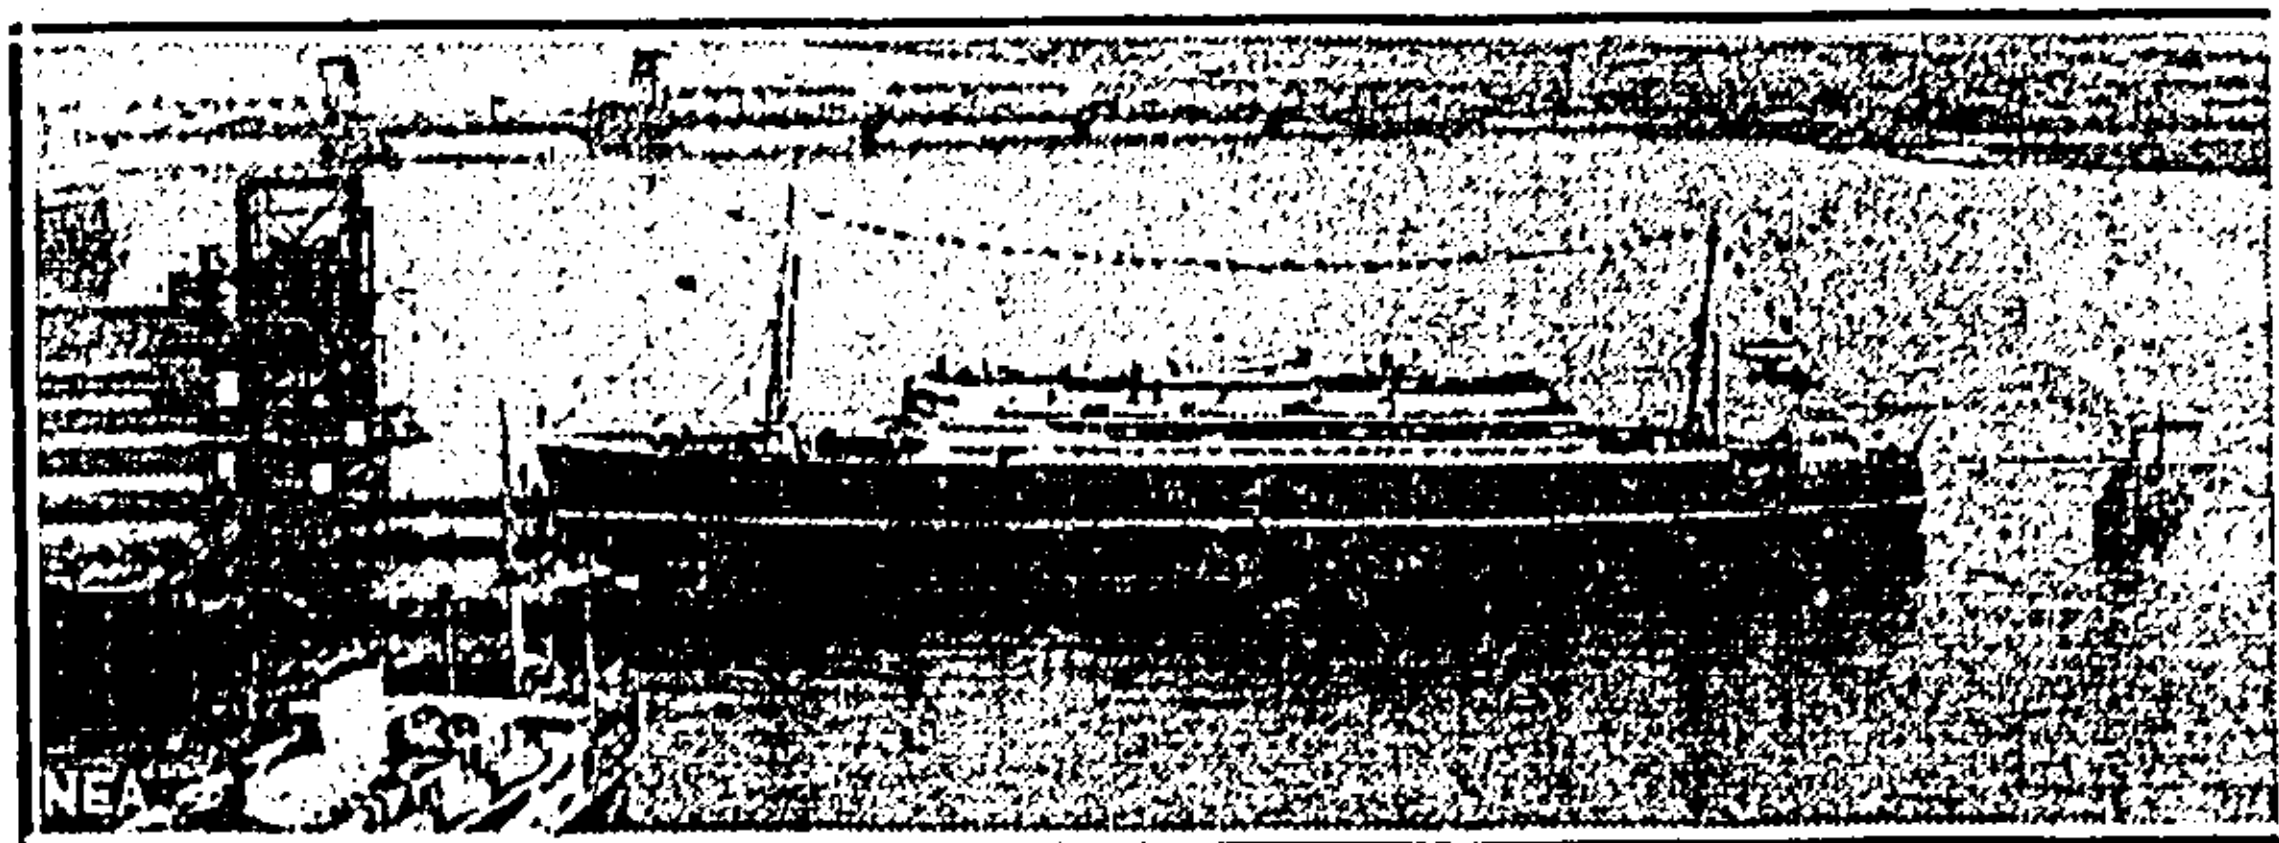

He looked at her little boot for a space, then raised his eyes. He knew that he was going to do what she asked though in leaving the mountain he would be deserting a cause that was almost won and he would likely be taken or shot down as soon as he left the fastness of the high country. Swergin had posted him in all the surrounding country and he was a marked man with a price on his head.

"Yes, I can do that," he sat up suddenly.

Dona bent toward him and her firm little arm touched his sun-browned elbow. With an effort he pulled away and got to his feet. Dona stood up, facing him. Something in her eyes sent a seething fire through him and his head whirled. Setting his teeth hard he Earthquake tremors last of these days left ruins like this along the Yugoslavian border of Greece. About 500 persons were killed as buildings collapsed, and thousands of others were rendered homeless. More than 25 refugee families who fled the earthquake area were drowned when a tidal wave engulfed the island of Amorgos.

CHINA MERCHANTS $30,000,000 LOAN.

AGREEMENT CAUSES AN OFFICIAL SENSATION

Nanking, Nov. 12.

A considerable stir has been created in official circles by the announcement of an agreement which has been signed for a loan to the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company by the China Realty Company.

Officials declare that the agreement has been signed by Mr. Li Kuo-chieh, the retiring General Manager of the China Merchants Company, on his own responsibility and without the approval of the Ministry of Communications.

Mr. Chu Chi-hua has declared that since the loan agreement has been concluded without the sanction of his Ministry it cannot be considered as legally valid.

The loan, it is reported, amounts to $30,000,000.

Dollar Line Interested.

The Shanghai Evening Post learns that the Dollar Steamship Company is also involved in the loan, the purpose for which, it is stated, is the construction of a new thirty-story building, the development of wharves in Shanghai and other ports, the purchase of 30 steamers of a gross tonnage of 300,000, and other works in connexion with the Company.—Reuter.

Wrong Procedure

Shanghai, Nov. 13.

Mr. Chu Chi-hua called a meeting this afternoon at the Municipal Government premises for a discussion of C. M. S. C. complications. The new director, Mr. Liu Hung-shen and the former director, Mr. Li Kuo-chieh, both attended.

Mr. Li Kuo-chieh reported on the 10 million taels loan from the China Realty Co. made for the maintenance of the company and approved by the ex Minister Cui Min-chu and General director, Chen Fu-mu. Li Kuo-chieh admitted that the procedure was wrong, though the loan had received official sanction.

After the meeting, Li Kuo-chieh was placed under supervision, pending further investigation by the new administration.—Reuter.

HE LOST HIS TEETH—and HER!

Poor Pity has done its deadly work

ONE tragedy followed another. At first it didn't seem serious. She noticed his bleeding gums and told him not to neglect them, but he did nothing. They became spongy-like and tender. Next the teeth loosened at the very roots. Then one tooth fell out, another had to be pulled out. Now half of them are gone.

Pity him? Yes. But he could have avoided it, easily, just as you can avert such a tragedy. Every morning and evening, brush your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums. More than a tooth paste, this scientific dentifrice is prepared to prevent decay, pyorrhea. It not only keeps your teeth clean and white, but prevents pyorrhea from attacking your gums, your teeth, and your health.

Forhan's for the Gums is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., specialist in mouth diseases. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Antiseptic developed by Dr. Forhan and used by dentists throughout the world in the treatment of pyorrhea.

Many children suffer from lack of Vitamin B. Modern diets are surprisingly poor in this factor. This means loss of appetite, digestive disturbances, intestinal sluggishness and reduced weight. Squibb Chocolate-Vitavose is a rich source of Vitamin B and helps supply the need of children—adults too—for disease-resisting vital energy. Everyone loves its taste—rich, delicious, appetizing!

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Those slick movie make-up masters of Hollywood have gone one step slicker. The newest art—and it's a sensation with filmdom's fair ones—is varnished hair. Keen as they are about the new fashion, Hollywood stars aren't yet shunning their own tresses. A lacquered wig does the trick—and you can pick your colour. Myrna Loy displays here an unusual model of Spanish design.

DIET AS AID TO BEAUTY.

By a Dietetic Specialist

To restore an unhealthy skin to its original freshness requires a real deal of self-discipline on the part of its possessor. It will mean the "sweet-tooth's" conversion to a plainer and more digestible diet. If you adore cream buns and rich pastries, then in beauty's interests, it will be necessary to turn a blind eye towards these delicacies.

And, similarly, much fried food and animal food will have to be cut out. Good, plain food, in other words, is the key to beauty.

Nature always rewards regular habits. Good, plain food, taken at regular hours will do more for the skin than all the expensive beauty treatments now so popular. By all means, I hasten to add, take your beauty treatments, too, if time and money allows. But get at the source of the trouble.

At an occasional food and health have spoiled the skin, so will natural foods restore it. Therefore, a change of diet is desirable.

Don't Become A Faddist

On the other hand, there is no necessity to eat only one kind of food. In fact, a varied diet of plain, nourishing food best meets the needs of the human body. Vegetables, fruit, and salads should, however, form a large part of the diet.

The woman who craves for a good complexion should rely upon vegetable and fruit juices when the system needs purifying. Fruit is valuable for any meal, but particularly so in the morning. An apple well masticated, followed by a glass of hot water, is the finest stimulus to a sluggish bowel, and is to be recommended in place of the morning tea. A glass of hot lemonade, or a glass of hot water containing the juice of two oranges is also helpful, and both these fruits are skin beautifiers.

Providing they agree—and they usually do if well masticated—cabbage, lettuce, watercress, carrots, turnips, and spinach should be taken freely, as these are anti-scurbutic and thus clear and improve the blood.

The lemon as a beautifier has no equal, though the onion follows it pretty closely. The juice of a lemon in a tumbler of hot water is beneficial for a "torpid liver." It is a help, too, in sleeplessness, and is a faithful ally to the would-be slim. Moreover, it clears the complexion astonishingly.

Oranges, apples, and mangoes are also beauty fruits and should be taken freely.

Carrots and spinach both contain iron in a natural form, and thus are valuable to the system. Tomatoes, too, contain iron, and are beneficially upon the liver, also.

And, finally, let me remind you that water is your greatest friend. It is your search for beauty. Water is a healthy and Nature's natural cleanser. It is, too, a food and stimulant to the body cells. A woman who is anxious to retain her youth and looks cannot do better than start on "the water" to "party." At least four glasses should be drunk daily, pleasantly between meals.

COLOURFUL BELTS.

Some of the newest belts of shiny leather have wide centres in one shade and narrower ends of a contrasting colour. These belts in the ordinary way, and the ends are narrowed down to half the original size. A green belt has ends of a deeper green, while a blue one is trimmed with black ends.

SOME TASTY SANDWICH FILLINGS.

Anchovy Butter

Soak four or five anchovies in warm water, dry them and remove skin and bones. Pound in a mortar with 3 oz. of butter, season with a little pepper and rub through a sieve. Press into a jar and keep in a very cool place.

Ham Butter

Chop 4oz. of cooked ham very finely, pound it in a mortar and add 4oz. of butter and four dessert-spoonfuls of cream. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne, and use the same or next day.

Parsley Butter

Take a large handful of very green parsley, just cover it with water and leave the lid off the pan as it boils for five minutes. Put under the cold water tap immediately, then strip the leaves from the stalks and chop very fine. Beat with four ounces of butter and add a little blonter or anchovy paste to give it a flavour.

Mock Crab

Rub the yolk of a hard-boiled egg to a smooth paste with a tablespoonful of oil. Add a teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and made mustard and a dash of cayenne. When well mixed add a quarter of a pound of grated Canadian cheese and a tablespoonful of vinegar seasoned with onion juice. Mix very well together.

Macrelle Butter

Take an ounce each of parsley, chervil, spring onions and watercress, and put in a saucepan with a shallot, half a clove of garlic, cover with cold water and bring to the boil. Drain well, dry in a cloth and chop. Wash three anchovies in warm water, remove the bones and pound with the herbs, four ounces of butter and the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, adding two dessert-spoonfuls of olive oil and one of vinegar gradually. Rub through a sieve and season to taste.

Curry Butter

Mix three ounces of butter with a teaspoonful of curry powder, a pinch of cayenne and quarter of a teaspoonful of black pepper. Use sparingly, with plenty of lettuce or watercress.

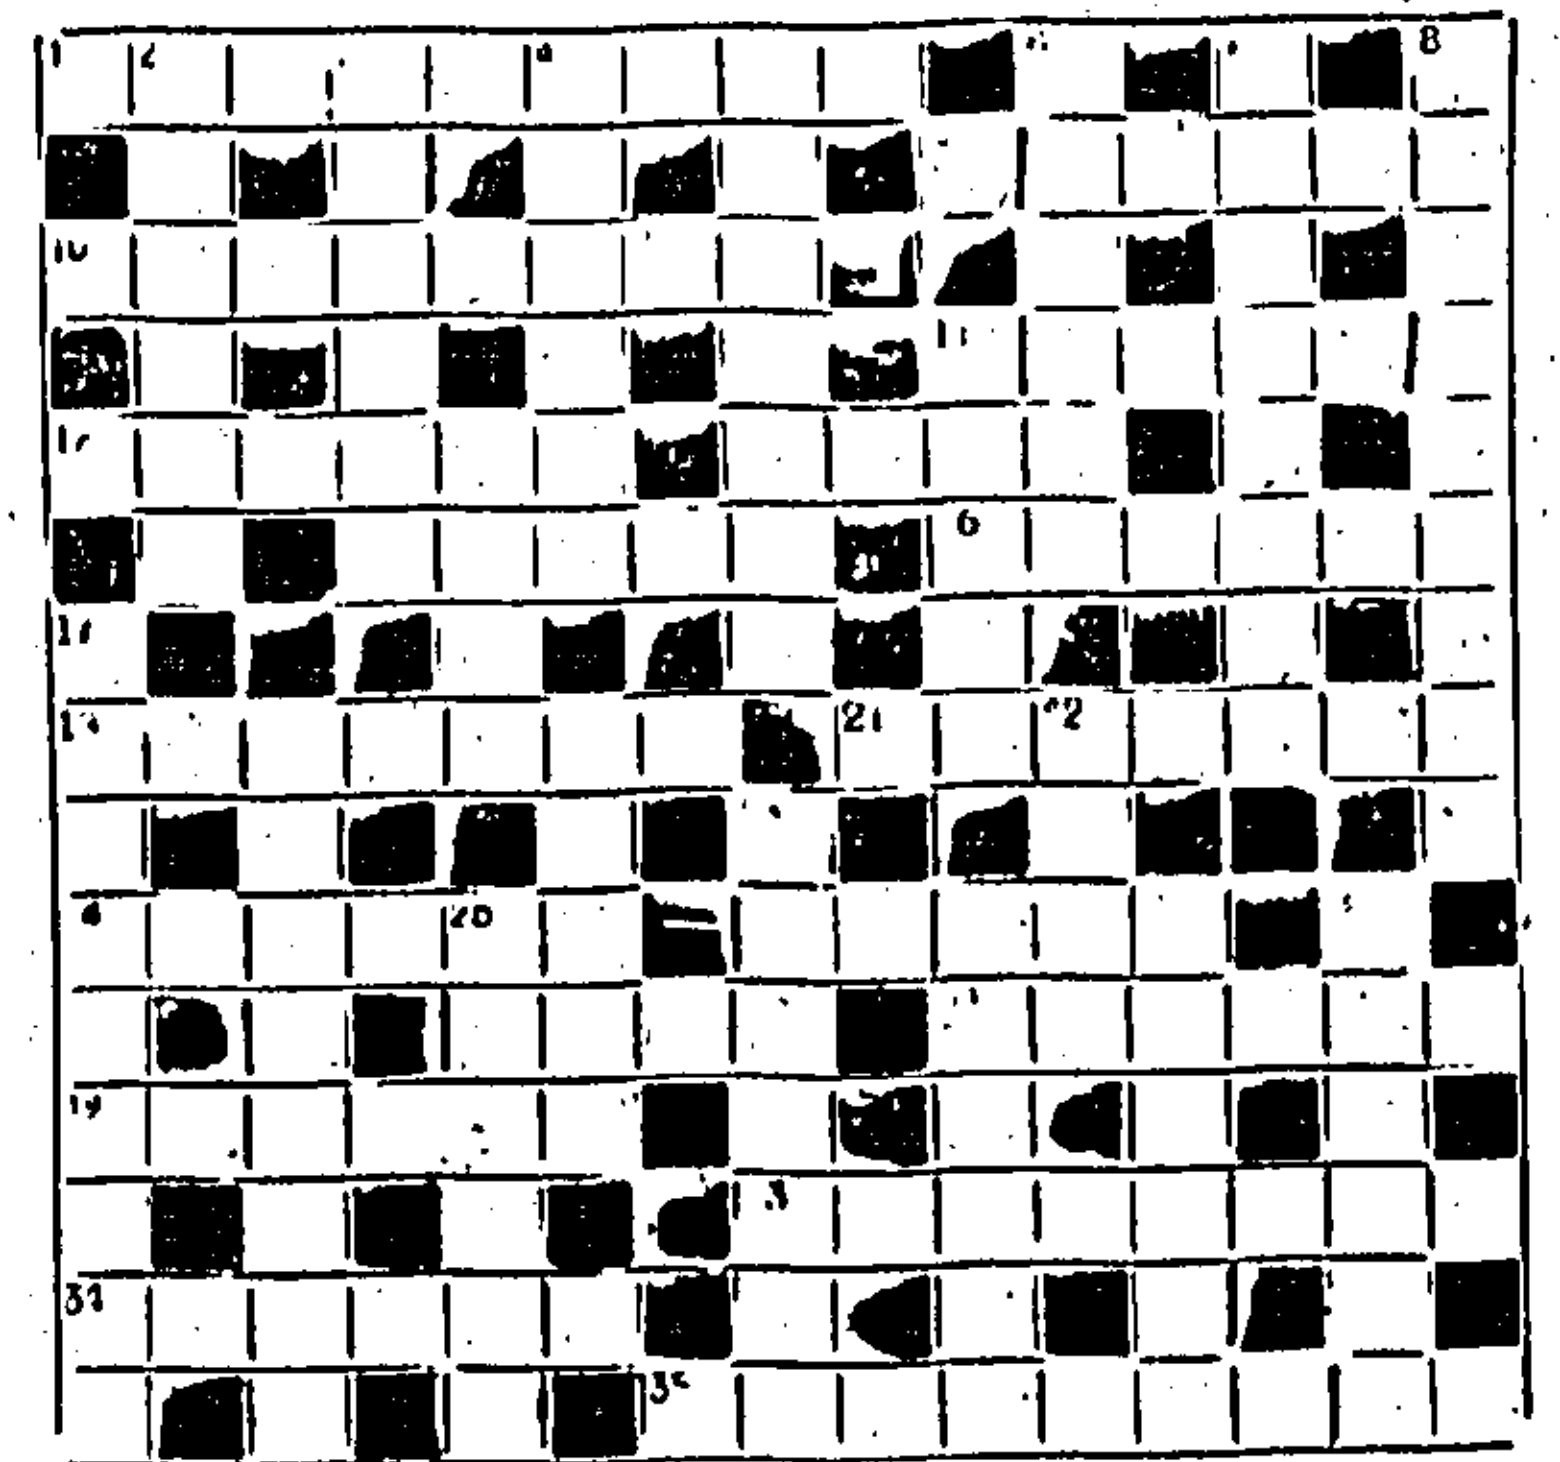

Puffed Shrimps

Shell a pint of shrimps, season with pepper and salt and a taste of pounded cloves and pack tightly into pots. Put a little butter over the top, put in a moderate oven for ten minutes and when cold cover with melted butter.

Put a says the smart blouse to sport with your new autumn suit is hand crocheted cotton. This chic model with the high round neck is lacy and feminine and very simple to make. It has alternate stripes of white and brown, or white and any dark colour which harmonizes with your costume.

AN ANCIENT EVIL

The League of Nations Assembly has had to review, among many other international problems, the work being done under its aegis to suppress slavery. The material which formed the basis of its discussions is the report of a committee of experts who were appointed last year. The business of the committee was to find out to what extent the Slavery Convention of 1926 has been successful in putting an end to those last vestiges of this ancient evil which the League had discovered still existing in the world six years ago. Those who served on the committee were men of long experience in colonial administration, like M. Angoulvent, a former Governor of French West Africa, M. Zedda who served the whole of his governmental career in the Italian colonies and Lord Lugard, a member of the League's Permanent Mandates Commission and a former Governor of Hongkong and of Nigeria.

From the information received, and excluding Liberia with which another League Committee is specifically dealing, the experts come to the following interesting conclusion. Slave-raiding in the old form of vast organised operations such as still existed only thirty years ago in Africa has completely disappeared, though sporadic and small-scale still occur on the frontiers of certain states like

Abyssinia, where the authority of the Central Government does not cover the whole territory of the state. There are still slave markets in certain Arab States on the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, and a few Moslem States of Arabia have not yet abolished slavery either in law or fact. Slave trading between the coasts of Africa and Arabia goes on in secret. In spite of the active watch of British, French and Italian warships, though the presence of these forces the slave trader to carry on his ghastly traffic under difficulties. The experts recommend that to cope with this evil adequately the League should exert moral pressure by refusing admission to the League to any state which does not first of all promise—as Abyssinia was made to promise on her entry to the League—that every effort will be made to abolish slavery. The experts further suggest that the League should urge its Member States not to conclude treaties of commerce or friendship with these states unless they promise to abolish slavery and the slave market. There is one Christian State, Abyssinia, which has not yet completely rid itself of slavery but the experts recognise that the Central Government are making every effort though the process is bound to be slow as the emancipation movement is dead against native custom and tradition.

Finally, the experts urge that the greatest need is to guarantee a ceaseless campaign which can only be secured by the creation of a permanent Slavery Commission under the League. "The very existence of this Commission," says the report of experts, would have the advantage of keeping public interest in the slavery question awake and more particularly of acting as a stimulus to States in which slavery exists to make every effort for its abolition, if only by degrees." This was the proposal unsuccessfully advanced by the British Government at the League's 1930 Assembly and now that the suggestion has been supported by the League's own experts, it should command the support of every Member state of the League and every man and woman throughout the world who wishes this blot on our civilisation finally removed.

International Currency

The announcement of a scheme for the introduction of a new international currency, to be called Bartex, has naturally aroused considerable interest. Does it offer a means of tackling the great problem of winning the world back to a common currency standard? Broadly speaking, the nations are divided into two main currency groups; one adhering to the gold standard and the other clinging somehow to what is known as the sterling bloc. Many nations, of course, fall in neither one class nor the other. But their future policy will be affected by whatever decision can be reached between these two main communities. Great Britain as the leader of the sterling bloc has as yet declared no definite currency policy. But indications of a trend are not wanting. It seems reasonably clear that the days of a managed pound unlinked to any metal are numbered. The tendency in British official circles seems to lie in the direction of a return to monometallism, with gold as the standard. The main problem, from the British standpoint, is concerned not so much with the internal conditions precedent to the re-establishment of the gold standard as with the lack of agreement upon the manner in which the gold standard should be managed. Evidence is given in the Macmillan report to the effect that no international standard can possibly survive the impediments in economic relations that have flourished in the post-war world.

Gold in pre-war days used to be maintained in due proportions in each gold standard country by a process of almost automatic regulation. The incoming gold advanced commodity prices to an extent that attracted foreign goods soon after the metal had arrived. In payment for these goods, gold flowed out again. But tariffs and other obstacles that can be brought ened at a moment's notice have prevented such automatic regulation in the post-war world. Other monkey wrenches would clank against the smooth operation of an international standard. Trade quotas, exchange regulations, central banking policies—they are all obstacles, and, like tariff policies, must be harmonised in some fashion in order that a currency standard can be made universal again. Bartex claims to jump all these difficulties by making commodities themselves the currency standard.

WIVES WHO RE-MARRY THEIR HUSBANDS

By MARGERY LAWRENCE

A GOOD deal of interest has been excited by another case going through. "I started an affair with Molly divorced, and then remarried," said one of the women who was generally realised that this is by no means extraordinary—the number of married couples who part, marry other people, and then, sometimes after many years, come together again, is quite surprisingly large. In the year 1929, inquiries made in the London register offices alone showed that during that year between sixty and seventy couples had come together again after being divorced, and it is safe to say that if the provincial register offices were combed they would yield many more instances. Nor is it a modern occurrence, as a record made in August 1604 proves. In this case, one "Rapho Good-childe" and Elizabeth, once his wife, but long parted from him and married to another, joined hands and took upon themselves vows that they were "right sorle" for their foolishness, and renewed their promises to perform all the duties that they first promised in their marriage.

I have heard people say, "How idiotical! Why, if they want to marry each other again now, did they ever quarrel to start with?" The answer to that seems to me obvious: it is generally youth, and youth's intolerance, that is at fault.

Few of us marry for the first time without going through a period of disillusionment more or less severe. Few of us realise how entirely idiotic—how nervous, and how imperfect and to demand faultlessness of the person we marry: which, in effect, we do in youth, deny it as we may.

Petty Annoyances of First Marriage. "How awful," we women cry in shocked voices, "for John to put his soapy shaving brush next to my lovely satin wrapper! Aren't men filthy?"

It never occurs to us that we are just as "filthy" to John when we leave our powder-box just where it can upset over his dress coat, or leave a satchet in one of his drawers by mistake until he smells like the Burlington Arcade—a thing loathsome to a degree to a normal man!

It never occurs to us how unkind and thoughtless we are to be late for a train, so that John (who has an urgent business appointment at the other end of the journey) has to hurry, getting worried and anxious. What sort of shape is he going to be in to deal with an important business interview at the end of the journey?

A crying sin among women is unaccountability, and peculiarly prevalent among idle women. Show me a woman who is invariably late for every appointment, and you will show me a woman with nothing on earth to do with her time but please herself!

In early days we are all too apt to see the mote in our partner's eyes while failing to see the beam in our own. . . . and so the quarrels start, and what started out as a romance becomes a case for the newspapers.

"So-and-so v. So-and-so"—the third person only too often someone taken out of sheer desire to hurt; taken up and then found difficult to shelve, as one man said.

GOOD OLD RE-PUB!

By Edward Killy, Scrutator.

Well, it looks as if we and Frankie Roosevelt will have to run the United States for the next four years.

Pity our first name isn't Johnny. We know some rhymes about Frankie and Johnny.

We had a lot to do with the American elections. It was us who, snowed under with confetti and pieces of paper thrown from the upper floors of the skyscrapers, led the enormous anti-prohibition procession down Fifth Avenue.

Massed bands preceded us. There were Sousa bands, German bands, Jazz bands, and Military bands. There were gangs of bands.

There were also bands of gangs. Chicago gangs, New York gangs, and all the other gangs that have made the American motion picture industry what it is to-day.

Prohibition was defeated from that day.

No one who saw us can forget the stirring spectacle. Our proud hearts beat high, as preceded by the bands (see above) and chased by the gangs (ditto) we marched down Broadway.

A million voices took up the refrain as the massed bands struck up the refrain of "Land of HOPS and Glory."

It was the largest, most stupendous, longest, greatest, widest procession in the whole wide world.

Overhead the stately Akron, largest dirigible in the world, sailed us.

Other records may be inspected at this office, between the hours of 2.00 and 2.05 p.m. daily. Admission free.

We would have still been in that procession, only someone throwing stock exchange ticker tape at us from the 89th floor of the world's highest building forgot to detach the ticker machine.

It was fourteen days before the doctor knew who we were, and six weeks before we'd . . . Anyway, we got Roosevelt in, so what does it matter. And anytime the Americans are dissatisfied with him as President, all they've got to do is to look us over.

Personally, we think that whoever gets in makes no difference.

"Now, please wait until everyone is up from the table, before you start selling them insurance."

"Sorry."

those of the British Commonwealth of Nations, have so deep an interest and for the achievement of which the co-operation of the United States is essential.

"To speak of the remedial measures that may have to be adopted, it is not proposed now to say more than that in the recent past, the British Government has frequently expressed their view and that neither in the realm of theory nor in that of fact are they able to find any reason for amending it.

"They believe that the regime of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing must be reviewed.

POSTPONEMENT OF PAYMENTS.

"They are profoundly impressed with the importance of acting quickly and they earnestly hope that the United States Government will see its way to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.

The immediate objective of the present Note, however, is of a more limited nature.

"On December 15th next, an instalment of the British war debts is due to be paid. It is not possible to hope that an agreement can be achieved in five weeks on matters of such vast scope.

Confronted last summer with a similar difficulty, the conference of Lausanne found it necessary, in order to allow its work to proceed undisturbed, to reserve during the period of the conference the execution of the payments due to the participating Powers.

AS AT LAUSANNE.

The British Government hope that a similar procedure may now be followed and ask for a suspension of the payments due from them for the period of the discussions now suggested or for any other period that may be agreed upon.

"The British Government believe that the proposed discussions could best begin in Washington, but on this point, as well as on others touched upon in the present Note, they await the expression of the views of the United States Government."—Reuter and British Wireless.

POET'S LONE VOYAGE

ACROSS TWO OCEANS IN CUTTER.

Marseilles, Sept. 28.

Bound for Tahiti on a lone voyage across two oceans, Alain Gerbault, ex-tennis star, poet and navigator, set sail alone from the Old Port this morning on board his nine-ton cutter, named after himself.

Alain Gerbault has told his friends that this may be his last voyage and that it is unlikely he will ever return to France or even to civilisation. His boat is furnished with three cabins; a kitchen in the bows, a combined living room and study, equipped with maps, log book and special cameras for sea photography, and a sleeping quarters furnished with a large sea chest of antique make said to have once belonged to a pirate.

For food the Alain Gerbault carries 400 lb. of boiled potatoes and provisions of rice, peas, porridge and sugar. On this simple diet, with water from a store of 200 litres, Gerbault will subsist for four months.

His departure had been kept secret. Only a handful of close friends were present this morning when he bade farewell to France, perhaps for ever.

A crowd of 50,000 spectators saw a classic game between Everton and Arsenal at Goodison Park, Liverpool, on Saturday. The Everton centre-forward, brilliant form, and completely over-awed G. Brown, the Arsenal centre.

Newcastle's fielded three reserves against Arsenal, but fought so well that the home team could only win by one goal.

Sheffield Wednesday were rather fortunate to beat Portsmouth, snatching a victory in the last minute of the game.

The crowd watching the Luton-Norwich game became so menacing that the referee had to end the reference.—Our Own Correspondent.

"DO AWAY WITH SANDHURST"

CHURCHES & WAR

Outspoken criticism by clergymen of the failure of the nations to disarm was made at the Congregational Union Assembly at Waverhampton.

"If we could do away with Sandhurst, Woolwich and Dartmouth the life of this country would be infinitely healthier," said the Rev. Leyton Richards, pastor of Carr's Lane Church, Birmingham.

"It is the men trained there who have hamstrung the Disarmament Conference."

"Out of every £1 of taxation, 13s. 4d. went for military purposes, and yet nobody suggested economy in that direction. They suggested cuts in every other direction—rom education, unemployment pay and salaries."

Our Word To Germany.

The Rev. K. L. Parry (Manchester) said that if Sir John Simon who was one of their own people had said when President Hoover made his proposals "I wish they went further, but so far as they go we will support them," the whole aspect of the world would have been different to-day.

"Not to keep our word to Germany regarding disarmament is the dirtiest, most un-English thing we could do," Mr. Parry added.

The Assembly carried a resolution moved by Mr. Richards, expressing profound disappointment with the meagre results so far attained by the Geneva Conference and reaffirming its conviction that war was inconsistent with Christian ideals.

Women Conduct Service.

Women conducted entirely a service and meeting of the women's Guild at Len Road Church during the day.

Mrs. Archibald Parsons, of Bath, discussing "Some Modern Essentials," contrasted family life in Victorian days and now.

"In the old days," she said, "we used to have a family pew and father, mother and the whole family used to sit there. She is more often alone and the churches are being kept going by the elderly and middle-aged people."

"In the old days if one met people who were not going to church on Sunday, they would pass by on the other side or explain why they could not go. "To-day, our young people pass us with their golf clubs in their cars and just wave cheerily. We women should make every effort to save the family life of the country."

"I am not asking you to go back to Victorian days, but I suggest we should each start by making our homes centres of attractiveness to the young people around us, where they can discuss anything with us and be perfectly frank with us."

Many a woman has dusted her children into the street and her husband into the public house," Mrs. Parsons declared.

NO SLEEP FOR 16
YEARSUNHAPPY FATE OF
TWO EX-SOLDIERS

Budapest, Oct. 8.

Cornelius Szekely is asleep at last, a sleep from which he will never awake.

In 1916, when fighting in the Austrian army, he was wounded in the head and since that time has been unable to sleep. Doctors from all parts of Europe examined this case of abnormal insomnia, but could do nothing to alleviate his condition. Only in the last few months did he get any rest, when strong drugs were administered which allowed him to sleep for about an hour a day.

He died in a Budapest hospital. Another man in Budapest claims a still longer abstinence from sleep.

He is Hans Paul Korn an official in the Social Insurance Department of the Hungarian Government who stated to a newspaper man to-day that he had not slept since 1916, when a bullet pierced his skull on the Russian front.

Korn's statement is supported by an affidavit by Dr. Ladislaw Herceg, chief physician at the Budapest Hospital. The doctor stated that Korn was normal in all respects save his apparently

TRAGEDY IN WIGAN COLLIERY.

DEATH ROLL ALREADY AMOUNTS TO 24

London, Nov. 12.
Already it is ascertained that 24 were killed and many injured in an explosion at Garwood Hall colliery, Edge Green, near Wigan, during a night shift early to-day, when over a hundred men were at work.

Although the accident occurred at 3 o'clock this morning, rescue operations were quickly organized, and a party of 60 fought for seven hours through the deadly "fire damp" before reaching the scene of disaster.

The explosion occurred 500 yards below the surface, where 24 bodies have already been discovered.

Many were so terribly burned as to render them unrecognizable. It is feared that the death toll will amount to 28, as four men are still missing and unaccounted for.

The Explosion.

There were 106 men in the pit when the disaster occurred. Two

TEA PRODUCERS' AGREEMENT.

SETTLEMENT OF ANGLO-DUTCH QUESTION

Batavia, Nov. 12.
A complete agreement has been reached between the British and Dutch tea producers regarding the question as to which year shall be the basis for determining the intensity of restriction of production. According to a local paper, British India, Ceylon and Java have yet to choose their boom years, and it is not yet certain whether the restriction will be fixed at 15 or 20 per cent.—Reuter.

dozen are believed dead, three slightly injured and three seriously injured. Seventy-two escaped or were rescued unhurt, whilst four are unaccounted for.

The explosion was slight and there was no fire, but there were very few survivors of men working in the spot in which the disaster occurred. More than a dozen rescue teams at once began operations, but their work was seriously hampered by the presence of dense volumes of "fire damp."—Reuter and British Wireless.

1,700 KILLED BY TIDAL WAVE.

CUBAN TOWN DESTROYED
FOR EVER

Camaguey, Nov. 13.
A tidal wave which devastated the coast town of Santa Cruz del Sur has left it unfit for human habitation and it may never be rebuilt.

The exact number of deaths will probably never be known as the retreating wave carried many bodies out to sea.

Over 800 bodies have already been buried, but for the safeguard of health and living it has been decided to burn the remaining corpses.

The official estimates place the dead at 1,700.

The British islands of Little Cayman and Caymanbrac, 150 miles from Jamaica were also devastated by a hurricane and over 60 killed and hundreds injured.

All the Government buildings were destroyed by the terrible visitation.—Our Own Correspondent.

Of the above mortgages, there was assigned to investors:

1930	£ 6,532,660.00
1931	£13,223,545.00

A lower rate of commission existed in 1931 due to cheap money for the greater part of the year, from September, money commenced to tighten up. As it is we earned 1.33% interest in excess of 8% paid on our Debentures, in addition to £146,825 commissions. From the above it will be seen that our 8% Debentures are secured by first mortgages on 56.4% of value and backed up with $5,000,000 capital.

Security plus Earnings

The natural laws of economics require an investor to secure the best return especially upon savings—trust funds—consistent with safety.

The China Realty Company is one of the oldest (established more than 20 years) real estate companies in Shanghai with a steady successful record back of it.

Capital $5,000,000 fully paid in cash. Business turnover 1931, $45,632,300 in land and mortgages only, which does not include management of estates, rent collections, insurance written, trustees for beneficial owners of property and sundry sources of income.

The Company are Realtors, not speculators in Real Estate.

The balance sheet as of December 31, 1931 shows:—

by which it will be noted that all of the proceeds from Debentures are invested in Mortgages and £1,130,500 of the Company's capital.

In the past twenty years the Company has negotiated more than one hundred million Taels in mortgages, all of which has been repaid, principal with interest.

If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8% upon your investments and/or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5% and 6% are current rates.

ARMISTICE DINNER.

BIG GATHERING AT THE PENINSULA HOTEL

The Ex-Active Service men's dinner at the Peninsula Hotel or Armistice Night was a great success, with an attendance of over 130 people, including guests. The gathering included, besides the British contingent, a number of ex-service men of the Allied forces, and the international spirit of fraternity was kept up by the mingling at the festive board of French, American, Russian and Italian residents with their British comrades of the war years.

The dinner was held on the sixth floor, where splendid decorations had been arranged under the skilled supervision of Mr. R. Tattersall, R.N., who was responsible for a most effective scheme. The excellent menu and the delightful smoking concert that followed, the proceedings lasting until one o'clock in the morning, helped to make the reunion an occasion to be remembered.

Mr. J. Hosford presided, and Sgt. Hollingsworth, R.E., took the part of "Old Bill" and issued rum in approved style. The menu card formed an acceptable souvenir with a clever design on the lines of "Old soldiers never die," drawn by Mr. Stan Hill. A "Housey Housey" run by Mr. Joe Beach realized $12, which will go to war charities.

The smoking concert was contributed to by Mr. Reg. Anderson, Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan, Mr. N. J. Robinson, Mr. P. Gornall (and assistant), Mr. J. L. Gecks, and Mr. J. Coney.

Thanks are expressed by the committee to the hotel management for the excellent organization.

GENEVA CHAOS.

UGLY SITUATION DEVELOPING

Geneva, Nov. 12.
An ugly situation is developing in Geneva and two more battalions from Valais have been summoned to the city.

One Geneva battalion, after fraternising with demonstrators, were confined under guard in the Exhibition Building, but they broke the window of the ground floor and sang the Internationale, joking with the people outside.

Genevans abused the Valaisans for coming into the city, and the Valaisan commander, taking no risks, ordered a fire hose to be played on the crowd.

Booing ensued and some of the more venturesome of the demonstrators were ready to attempt to seize the hose, but were dissuaded on hearing the order to fix bayonets.

Police with drawn sabres then charged the mob, which dispersed.

Quiet at Midnight.

Later.
All was quiet in the city at midnight, the troops having been withdrawn to barracks, whilst rain drove the demonstrators indoors.

There are now 10,000 troops in Geneva, or one soldier to every 15 inhabitants.

Yesterday the crowds were never very large and were well behaved except for a few rowdies amongst the demonstrators around the barracks, who were composed mostly of youths, many of them students.

Apart from booing and the singing of the Internationale there was not the slightest indication of dangerous feeling. The soldiers have not seemed to regard the situation at all seriously.—Reuter.

HELENA MAY CONCERT.

PIANO AND VOCAL RECITAL TO GIVEN

Next Thursday's concert at the Helena May Institute consists of a vocal and piano recital by Mrs. Nell Mathieson and Mr. A. M. Bowes-Smith.

Mrs. Mathieson will sing three groups of songs: one set in German (Brahms, Hugo Wolf and Carl Bohm), one set by Darius, whose music is becoming increasingly popular, and one miscellaneous group in English. The singer will be accompanied on the piano by Mr. Maurice Barton.

The piano part of the recital consists of the four Scherzi of Chopin. These characteristic works, of which two, at any rate, are well known, are very seldom heard at one performance, and Mr. Bowes-Smith has placed them on the one programme so that they may be compared and contrasted. Programmes will be provided, at a cost of 10 cents, giving full descriptive notes of the Scherzi, together with translations of the German songs.

An usual, the concert will be open to the public, with an admission charge of 40 cents for members, 60 cents for non-members, children.

BIG CHAIN OF EXHIBITIONS

SCHEME FOR EAST OUTLINED

In a talk with Mr. Randall, the advance representative of Tait's Manila Carnival Shows, some very interesting data was given us on their Java tour, which has just finished. It appears that each year in Java in the four big cities, Batavia, Soerabaya, Semarang and Bandoeng yearly exhibitions are held. They are operated by committees of well known local gentlemen, and he understands though not having financial help from the Government they have their support. Well-known local firms rent stands which are generally of a most artistic design. Arts and crafts and local industries are well represented, there are stands showing Java's imports and exports, railway system, etc. These are exhibited in the form of very ingenious models, good restaurants with first class dancing floors and of course no exhibition would be a success if the amusements side were neglected. Messrs. Churchill and Tait fill this want. This firm has an agreement with these exhibitions in Java for a number of years to provide the amusements and each year sees them in Java with five or six of the latest riding devices also a large number of side shows which often include some of the best obtainable from Europe and America. These attractions are brought out by them for the Manila Carnival the great yearly event of the Philippines in January and from there they go to Java.

Now, Mr. Randall's idea is that it would be a great business proposition if a chain of international exhibitions could be arranged to include say Java, Manila, Hongkong, Saigon, Bangkok, Singapore and Medan. He contends that, put on a proper business basis there would be no telling as to what benefits each country would derive from such a scheme. Naturally it would want a lot of working out, and the Governments of each country would, to make it an unqualified success, have to take more than a superficial interest in it.

A peculiar point in this is, that the best time for holding such exhibitions would never clash; Hongkong, October-November; Saigon, December; Manila, January-February; Bangkok, March; Singapore, April; Medan, May; and the four cities in Java June-September.

Mr. Randall's idea is that in each exhibition there would be an international section, so that if say, the exhibition were in Batavia, in the international section there would be one stand representing Hongkong. This would naturally have to be built to represent something applicable to the island. Not too big or costly but something so artistic and unique to the other countries that it would rivet the attention of all the passers-by. In-aside would be represented the arts and crafts of Hongkong, general business, information to the tourists, etc.

The great possibilities of Hongkong for a short holiday during the winter months to some people in Java who cannot for various reasons go to Europe would, be sure, catch on and vice versa for Hongkong residents visiting Java. Steamship lines would, it is supposed, make special quotations. All this must lead to further trade between the other countries and bring buyers more together.

In such a scheme, Mr. Randall, of course, does not try to hide the great advantages it would be to the organization he is at present representing, but as he states with such a chain of exhibitions his firm could bring from Europe and America the very best and latest attractions, and as everyone knows to make any exhibition a success financially it must have first-class amusements.

A POLICE COURT COMEDY

MIX-UP BETWEEN DEPARTMENTS

If Li Wan-kai could understand English he would have been heartily amused at this comedy which surrounded his case when it came before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning.

When his case was mentioned late in the proceedings, one lone prisoner remained in the dock.

"I ask for a remand in this case," said Sergt. Thorpe. "The man is still in hospital."

The Magistrate knitted his brows. "That's strange," he said. "A man who has never been before the Court and you are asking for a remand."

"Yes," said the prosecuting sergeant. "There have been two remands already."

SHOCK FOR SERGEANT

"Wrong procedure altogether," said Mr. Wynne-Jones. "The law says that when a man is charged he must appear before a magistrate within 48 hours, or as soon as possible. There was no need to charge this man till he came out of hospital."

There was silence in the Court for a moment.

Then "Who is that man in the dock?" from the Bench.

Rapid words were exchanged in Cantonese.

"It's the defendant," said the astonished sergeant.

NO COMPLAINT

When the Court settled down again, Mr. Wynne-Jones suggested that the case might proceed.

"But we haven't got the complaint," said Sergt. Thorpe.

"Lost him too?" asked the magistrate.

"And Sergt. Fitches is not here," added Sergt. Thorpe.

Smiling, the Magistrate granted a 48 hours remand after all and ordered that the prisoner be taken back to the prisoners' ward in the Government Civil Hospital.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Mortals and immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "As is the earthly, such are they also that are heavenly; and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly."
(1-Cor.15:48.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "He will swallow up death in victory;
and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the robuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth; for the Lord bath spoken it. And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord;

we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." (Isa.25:8,9.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages: from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and and the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator." (P. 491-113).

SHANGHAI SENSATION

LI KUO-CHIEH UNDER SURVEILLANCE

SPIRITED AWAY

REALTY COMPANY LOAN TO C.M.S.N. CO.

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, Nov. 14.
A sensational report is in circulation to the effect that Marquis Li Kuo-chieh has been spirited away in a motor-car by Government agents and taken to some unknown destination.

The report has created a stir in both Chinese and foreign circles, following as it does closely upon information that Marquis Li was being kept under surveillance.

ENQUIRY PENDING.

It is said he will be kept under Government surveillance pending the completion of the enquiry into the affairs of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company.

Chinese officials assert that any attempt to take over the wharves and godowns of the Company, which have been mortgaged to the China Realty Company under the loan agreement signed by Marquis Li Kuo-chieh, will be resisted.

REALTY LOAN.

It is again emphasised that as the agreement was concluded without the sanction of the Ministry of Communications it could not be considered valid.

The China Realty Company lent the China Merchants S. N. Company $10,000,000. Li Kuo-chieh declares that the loan was negotiated with the approval of the ex-Minister of Communications, General Chan Ming-shu and the Director-General, Mr. Chen Fu-mu.

Marquis Li Kuo-chieh is the grandson of the famous Marquis Li Hung-chang.—Reuter.

NEW HAVEN TRAGEDY

LEADING JURIST KILLED

SINO-JAPANESE PEACEMAKER

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 14.

A tragedy which may possibly have some influence on the settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute occurred to-day at New Haven, Connecticut.

Mr. Charles P. Howland, one of America's leading lawyers, was involved in a motor-car accident, being knocked down in the street and mortally injured.

He was sixty-three years of age and died soon after admission to hospital.

It is understood that he has been, for some time, working on plans for a diplomatic settlement of the differences between China and Japan.

He is a famous international jurist, his Survey of American Foreign Relations being a notable contribution to the literature of this type. He was until his death, director of research in the Council of Foreign Relations, New Haven, was the scene of his country residence.

TYNESIDE SHIP BLAZE

CHIEF MATE GOES TO DEATH

BLUE STAR LINER DAMAGED

London, Nov. 13.

Thrilling scenes were witnessed on the Tyne last night when a fire broke out aboard the Blue Star liner, Oregon Star.

The vessel has been laid up at Helburn for some time past, but was expected to resume service shortly. A number of Chinese sailors were sleeping on board when the outbreak occurred and they awakened to find their sleeping quarters full of smoke. All escaped.

Land fire-fighting appliances and the Tyne fire-floats were quickly on the scene pouring gallons of water into the hold which formed the seat of the blaze.

One tragedy occurred. The chief officer, early in the affair, volunteered to descend into the hold in an effort to locate the blaze. He was equipped with a gas-mask and a life-line, but he was caught in the fire and incinerated.

Considerable damage was done to the vessel before the fire was extinguished.

The Oregon Star is normally engaged on the Blue Star line's South American service, her trip being London, Boulogne, Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires and back.—Reuter.

The Oregon Star is a vessel of about 5,700 tons, being over 425 feet long. She was built at Newcastle in 1914 for the Union Cold Storage Company.

THE BONUS ARMY ON MARCH

ADVANCE GUARD ARRIVES

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Nov. 14.

A fresh invasion of Washington by the bonus marchers is in prospect, according to messages from the United States capital announcing that over 2,500 ex-Servicemen have already arrived.

It appears that they represent merely the advance party.

The plans of the Bonus Marchers are said to embrace the marching of as many ex-Servicemen in Washington as can be got together between now and December 16, when Congress enters upon its new session prior to its retirement in March.

FIVE THOUSAND MARCHING.

Five thousand, in addition to the first arrivals, are now reported to be on their way, carrying banners which indicate that they again propose to demonstrate to press their demand for the immediate payment of the war bonus.

Up to the moment, the authorities have taken no action in the matter, but fears of a repetition of the trouble of the late summer are already entertained.

HAMMOND HITS 200th RUN

PAYNTER NEVER COMFORTABLE

Melbourne, Nov. 14.

Victoria's bowlers kept the M.C.C. team much quieter this morning, and before lunch the total was increased by only 43 runs for the loss of one wicket.

Paynter, who was kept in subjection on Saturday, contributing only 28 to a partnership of 124, was never comfortable to-day and was dismissed when he had increased his score to 37.

Hammond, played polished cricket, however, and just before lunch completed his second hundred, being still undefeated. The M.C.C. now lead by 174 runs with two wickets in hand.

Lunch score:

Victoria: 231 (Oakley 83)

M.C.C.: 405 for 8 (Wyatt 74, Hammond 200 not out)

WOMAN'S BATH INTERRUPTED

ROBBERS COMPEL SILENCE

A double-barrelled gun and fifty rounds of ammunition comprised the total haul of two armed robbers who gained admittance to an unnumbered house in Ma Cheuk Ling village in the Shataukok district yesterday evening.

The uninvited visitors pushed their way through the front door, which was not fastened, shortly after 7 p.m. and unceremoniously interrupted a married woman who was having a bath in the front cubicle. One man was seen armed with a revolver but the other was carrying no weapon.

The armed man pointed the revolver at the woman, Lam Chiu, aged 40, and commanded her to remain silent. The unarmed intruder went into the woman's bedroom and threw everything about but found nothing of any value. Seizing a double-barrelled gun from the wall the men then left, taking also 50 rounds of ammunition.

CAPTAIN WEBSTER PASSES AWAY

LONG PERIOD OF ILL HEALTH

Capt. John Webster, a former master, who has for the past two years been without employment and on and off a patient of the Government Civil Hospital, died at that institution last night shortly after 8 o'clock.

Except that the late officer resided at 47, Li Tung Street little is known of him. He was an elderly man and had served on several of the waterfront steamers plying between Hongkong and other coastal ports.

The funeral takes place this afternoon, the cortege leaving the Government Civil Hospital Mortuary at 4.30 p.m. and arriving at the Stubbs Road entrance to the Colonial Section about 5 p.m.

PAYMENT DELAY SOUGHT

RE-OPENING OF WHOLE QUESTION

ROOSEVELT CALLED TO WASHINGTON

LONDON, November 14.

THE TEXT OF THE BRITISH WAR DEBTS NOTE HANDED BY SIR RONALD LINDSAY, BRITISH AMBASSADOR IN WASHINGTON, TO THE UNITED STATES SECRETARY OF STATE ON NOVEMBER 10, HAS BEEN RELEASED FOR PUBLICATION.

Belief that the regime of inter-governmental financial obligations must be reviewed is expressed. The British Government ask that meanwhile payments of British war debt due from them be suspended and that the United States enter into an exchange of views of the measures necessary to hasten a restoration of world prosperity.

President Hoover's attitude to the request is non-committal. In an invitation to Mr. Franklin Roosevelt to visit the White House this week to discuss the situation created by the Franco-British representations, the Republican leader blows both hot and cold, while submitting that the terms of the Congress resolution against cancellation of war debts limit the scope of any negotiation upon which the United States may enter.

HOOVER HUMS AND HAWS

Washington, Nov. 13.

President Hoover's attitude on war debts is outlined in a telegram which he has sent to the President-Elect, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, inviting him to confer at the White House next week on the debt problems, and other matters which he says could not wait to be settled until Mr. Roosevelt assumes office.

In the course of his message, President Hoover reiterates his opposition to any form of cancellation of the war debts of Europe, but says:

"We should be receptive to proposals from our debtors of tangible compensation in other forms than the direct payment of cash, in the expansion of markets for the products of our labour and our farms."

He adds: "A substantial reduction of world armaments which would relieve our own and the world's burdens and dangers has a bearing on this question."

LONG NEGOTIATIONS.

President Hoover says that if negotiations are undertaken, protracted and detailed discussions will be necessary, which could not be concluded, he felt sure, during his administration.

Any negotiations are limited by the resolution of Congress (opposing the cancellation or reduction of war debts). If there be any change of attitude on the part of Congress, it will be greatly affected by the views of the members who recognise Mr. Roosevelt as their leader and probably desire his counsel.

COMMON GOOD.

"I am prepared," says President Hoover, "to deal with this question as far as my power permits, but it must be our common wish to deal with it constructively for the common good of our country."

Referring to the Congress resolution, President Hoover says that any commitments which the governments of Europe may have made between themselves, could not, therefore, be based upon any assurances from the United States. Moreover, the tenor of the negotiations asked for by the debtors for nations goes beyond the terms of the resolution in which limitation to purely individual action in regard to those incapable of payment during the period of the depression was evident.

Referring to the moratorium, President Hoover says that European nations have made very substantial progress during the year in financial adjustments between themselves and towards the reduction of armaments.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Referring to other important questions to be discussed at next week's conference,

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXI

Dona rode down the Blind River trail at a brisk trot. She had undertaken a mad adventure and was enjoying it, knowing that soon enough she would have to return to realities. She would have to spend her time humoring the whims of Dudley Winters and she must see that Asper should never again go back into the wild country. She was free for a day at least. One more day. As she drank in the fragrance of the balsams Dona told herself that now she would be able to ride down to Seth Doby's place and be married that night without the fear that had been with her for days.

A big rock jutted out almost into the trail and Dona was admiring its red pillars when two men rose from behind it. They were armed with rifles and by their dress she knew them to be timber men. It was evident that they recognized her as they made no move to halt her. Dona wondered how many of Swergin's men had been lying along the trail and she suddenly realized that grim warfare was on in the hills. She pulled in the reins and called to one of the men. "Do you work for Asper Deit?"

The taller of the two grinned sourly and his reply was short. "We work for Swergin of the Timber Company."

Dona touched the reins and moved on. It was evident that Swergin was the Deit Timber Company in the region about Three Rivers.

While she was halted talking to the men, a figure moved from behind the far end of the rocky ledge and melted into the forest. Dona did not see this figure nor did the two slow-witted guards.

On down the slope the timber closed in upon the trail and made it a bridal path along which a river could barely pass without being brushed by the overhanging needles. The trail twisted and turned, talking the easiest course and avoiding the biggest trees. It was such a trail as a wise old range cow or a mule deer would make in crossing the range.

Dona rode easily and did not push her horse. She was wrapped in the spicy silence and did not want to hurry. A little clearing opened before her. It was carpeted with columbine and lupine, with here and there a gay orange daisy. Dona pulled the reins to a halt at the edge of the tiny garden and held her breath.

"A bit of Heaven?" drawled a voice at her elbow.

Dona started and turned in her saddle. She was looking into the shadowless, grey eyes of Stanley Black. His horse was hidden in the foliage beside the trail but his head and shoulders were in the open. At a glance Dona realized that Black looked leaner and harder than when she had met him in the city.

"Mr. Black!" Dona checked further exclamation. "It is beautiful, isn't it?"

"The bride rides alone into Paradise Valley." There was a hint of banter in his eyes.

Dona flushed, then smiled. "I came over the mountain to see a friend."

"You should receive a royal welcome," Stanley Black's eyes showed the admiration her slender beauty had roused.

"Do you think that friend would help me?" Dona put the question with her gaze on the lupine across the clearing.

"Beyond the question of doubt, he would," Stanley bent over the saddle horn and pulled a pine needle from a branch.

"He has a way with him," Dona smiled, "that is not always nice."

"What does he do? I can't imagine any man not being nice—," Stanley halted as though suddenly remembering something.

"He runs away after he helps me," Dona met his eyes frankly.

Stanley Black laughed, not too clearly, but rather with a tinge of bitterness. "He is a fool," he said slowly.

"But he would help me again, don't you think?" Dona felt her heart pounding against the soft cloth of her jacket. She was sure he must see it beating.

"He would, I am sure."

Dona leaned impulsively toward him. "I am in a peck of trouble!"

"If you'll ride a little off the trail we can sit and talk," Stanley suggested. He pushed his black mare into the open and Dona followed.

The spot Stanley selected was a nook behind a slab of stone. It was shaded by towering Engemann spruce and far down from the trail.

As he rode at her side Dona noted that his chaps were worn and scratched, as though from pushing through brush and undergrowth.

His big hat was frayed at the edges and he wore no glove on his right hand though the left was encased in buckskin. When he halted in the secluded spot he faced her and smiled.

Cowboys riding black horses need to be careful in these hills. His bare hand was resting on his hip with his long fingers just touching the butt of a heavy Colt.

Dona returned his smile. "Lumberjacks are dangerous fellows to have loose, aren't they?"

"Mostly a bunch of dumb fools," he replied in all seriousness.

Dona realized as she noted the seclusion of the spot that she should have been trembling with apprehension at being alone with this strange young man in such a place.

Instead of fear she felt a sense of eagerness and trust. She slid from her horse and sat down on a mossy boulder. Stanley swung a worn chap clear of the saddle horn and sprawled at full length on the grass at her feet. He shoved his wide hat back and carefully selected a grass stem to chew.

"Now we will see what can be done," He gazed at her in open admiration.

"You know about the trouble over at Three Rivers?"

Stanley nodded.

"We just have to get rid of that man, Ball. The men are hunting him but they never can get him cornered. Do you know him?" Dona watched Stanley's face.

Not a line had changed except the corners of his mouth. His eyes looked into hers for a full second.

"I know him well," he said simply. "He must be a hardened killer."

Dona went on. Her troubles were coming back to her and she did not notice the man's eyes cloud and his lips tighten.

"He is a pretty tough hombre. He'll always be an outlaw, I guess," and broke it in two.

"Do you know him well enough to get him to leave Folly Mountain?"

Dona put the question eagerly. Something in Stanley Black's manner made her sure he could do just that.

He looked at her little boot for a space, then raised his eyes. He knew that he was going to do what she asked though in leaving the mountain he would be deserting a cause that was almost won and he would likely be taken or shot down as soon as he left the fastness of the high country. Swergin had posted him in all the surrounding country and he was a marked man with a price on his head.

"Yes, I can do that." He sat up suddenly.

Dona bent toward him and her firm little arm touched his sun-browned elbow. With an effort he pulled away and got to his feet.

Dona stood up, facing him. Something in her eyes sent a seething fire through him and his head whirled. Setting his teeth hard he backed away a step and a twisted smile came to his lips.

"I am pleased to be at your service, Mrs. —"

Dona flushed until she was irresistibly beautiful. His words brought her back to her present status with a jerk. Winters, she finished lamely. She held out her hand impulsively. "You have done so much for me!" her voice choked up and her eyes grew moist.

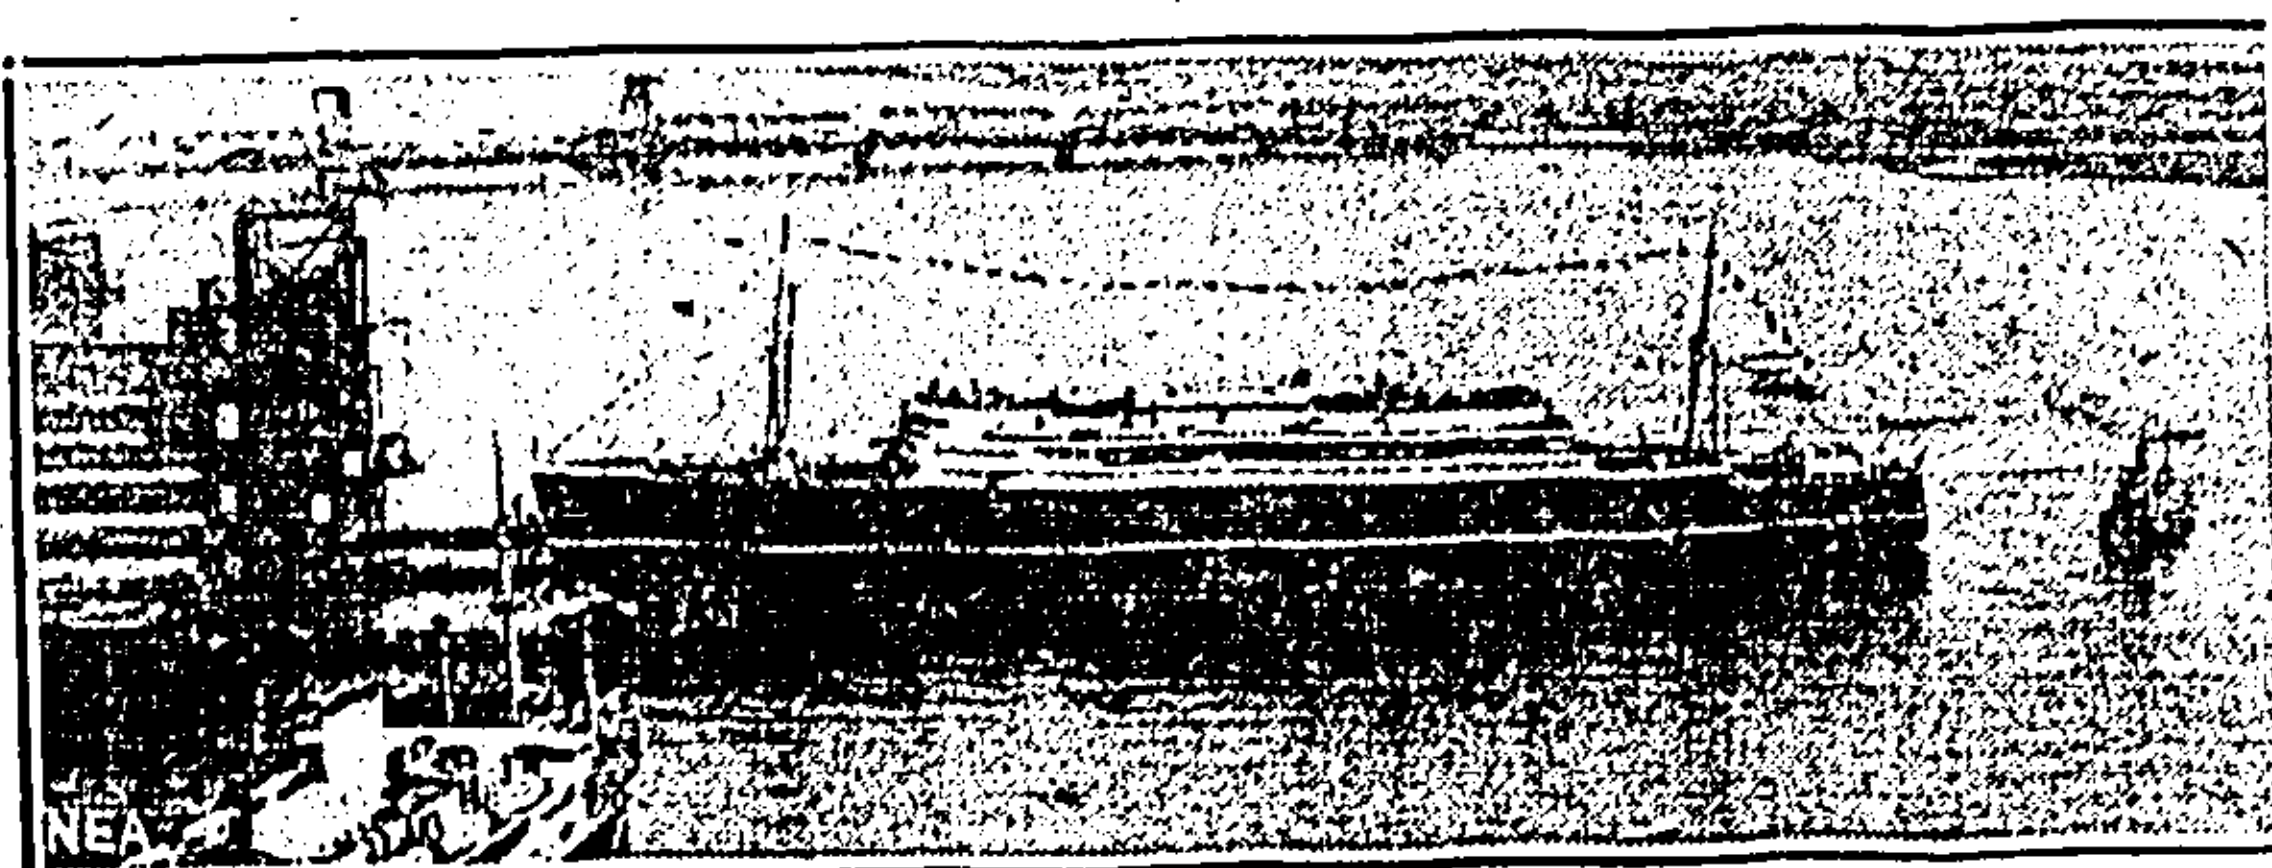

Stanley cleared his throat. The situation was becoming dangerous and he knew it. "I must go now," he said and turned to the black mare.

Dona mounted slowly and followed him back to the trail. He remained under cover while she rode away. The reins had carried her to the top of the ridge before she was able to piece together all she had felt. If he had only made a move to take her! But he was not that kind. He thought her another man's wife. She glanced at her watch. It was 3:30 and she would be back in Three Rivers in time to go down to Sam Dean's with Dudley. Dona felt suddenly as though the world had ceased to be a sunny place. The pines looked cold and dark.

It was "Hindenburg Day" in Berlin, with wildly cheering throngs hailing Germany's President who ever he appeared at the celebrations of his sixty-fifth birthday. Smartly uniformed, the venerable leader here is shown, centre, as he inspected his guard of honour.

Another link between the United States and South America, the new Grace liner Santa Lucia here is shown as it entered the water during its launching at Kearny, N. J. The $45,000,000 ship, which is 508 feet long and weighs 17,000 tons, is the third of four liners being built for South American service. More than 5,000 persons attended the launching ceremonies.

Earthquake tremors last in three days left ruins like this along the Yugoslavian border of Greece. About 6,000 persons were killed as buildings collapsed, and thousands of others were rendered homeless. More than 25 refugee families who fled the earthquake area were drowned when a tidal wave engulfed the island of Amorgos.

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

EVERTON HOLD THE VILLA

ARSENAL BENEFIT

London, Nov. 13.
A crowd of 50,000 spectators saw a classic game between Everton and Arsenal at Goodison Park. Dixie Dean, the Everton centre-forward, was a most brilliant form, and completely over-shadowed G. Brown, the Arsenal centre. Newcastle's three reserves, who were sent on to the field, were rather fortunate to beat Portsmouth, matching a victory in the last minute of the game.
The crowd watching the Luton-Norwich game became so menacing that the police had to clear the referee. Our Own Correspondent.

HE LOST HIS

TEETH—and HER!

Pyorrhea has done its deadly work.

ONE tragedy followed another. At first it didn't seem serious. She noticed his bleeding gums and told him not to neglect them, but he did nothing. They became swollen and tender. Next the teeth loosened and the very roots! Then one tooth fell out, another had to be pulled out. Now half of them are gone.

Pity him! Yes. But he could have avoided it, easily, just as you can avert such a tragedy. Every morning and evening, brush your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums. More than a tooth paste, this scientific dentifrice is prepared to prevent dread pyorrhea. It not only keeps your teeth clean and white, but prevents pyorrhea from attacking your gums, your teeth, and your health.

Forhan's for the Gums is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., specialist in mouth diseases. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Antiseptic developed by Dr. Forhan and used by dentists throughout the world in the treatment of pyorrhea.

SUPPLY that missing VITAL ENERGY

Many children suffer from lack of Vitamin B. Modern diets are surprisingly poor in this factor. This means loss of appetite, digestive disturbances, intestinal sluggishness and reduced weight. Squibb Chocolate-Vitavose is a rich source of Vitamin B and helps supply the need of children—adults too—for disease-resisting vital energy. Everyone loves its taste—rich, delicious, appetizing!

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Those slick movie make-up masters of Hollywood have gone one step slicker. The newest art—and it's a sensation with filmdom's fair ones—is varnished hair. Keen as they are about the new fashion, Hollywood stars aren't yet shellacking their own tresses. A lacquered wig does the trick—and you can pick your colour. Myrna Loy displays here an unusual model of Spanish design.

DIET AS AID TO BEAUTY.

By a Dietetic Specialist

To restore an unhealthy skin to its original freshness requires a radical deal of self-denial on the part of its possessor.

It will mean the "sweet-tooth's" conversion to a plainer and more digestible diet. If you adore cream buns and rich pastries, then your beauty's interests, it will be necessary to turn a blind eye towards these delicacies.

And, similarly, much fried food and animal food will have to go, and dairy foods—milk, eggs, butter—be substituted for them.

But if you do not mind self-denial, then Nature will ultimately reward you by giving you a skin that any recognized beauty might envy.

Nature always rewards regular habits. Good, plain food, taken at regular hours will do more for the skin than all the expensive beauty treatments now so popular.

By all means, I hasten to add, trace your beauty treatments to its time and money allows. But get at the source of the trouble.

Just as unnatural foods and habits have spoiled the skin, so will natural foods restore it. Therefore, a change of diet is imperative.

Don't become A Faddist

On the other hand, there is no necessity, nor is it wise, to become a faddist and eat only one kind of food. In fact, a varied diet of plain, nourishing food best meets the needs of the human body. Vegetables, fruit, and animal foods, however, form a large part of this diet.

The woman who craves for a good complexion should rely upon vegetable and fruit juices when the system needs purifying. Fruit is valuable for any meal, but particularly so in the morning. An apple well masticated, followed by a glass of hot water, is the finest stimulus to a sluggish bowel, and is to be recommended in place of the morning tea. A glass of hot lemonade, or a glass of hot water containing the juice of two oranges is also helpful, and both these fruits are skin beautifiers.

Providing they are—used they usually do if well masticated—cabbages, lettuce, watercress, carrots, turnips, and spinach should be taken freely, as these are anti-acid and thus clear and improve the blood.

The lemon as a beautifier has no equal, though the orange follows it pretty closely. The juice of a lemon in a tumbler of hot water is beneficial for a torpid liver. It is a help, too, in sleeplessness, and is a faithful ally to the would-be slim. Moreover, it clears the complexion astonishingly.

Oranges, apples, and pears, too, are also beauty fruits and should be taken freely.

Carrots and spinach both contain iron in a natural form, and thus are valuable to the anemic.

Carrots, too, contain iron, and are beneficially upon the liver, also.

And, finally, let me remind you that water is your greatest friend. It is your search for beauty. Water is a laxative and Nature's natural beauty. It is, too, a food and stimulant to the body cells. The woman who is anxious to retain her youth and looks cannot do better than start on "the water cure to beauty." At least four glasses should be drunk daily, preferably between meals.

COLOURFUL BELTS.

Some of the newest belts of shiny leather have wide centres in one shade and narrower ends of a contrasting colour. They buckle in the ordinary way, and the ends are narrowed down to half the original size. A green belt has ends of a deeper green, while a blue one is trimmed with black ends.

SOME TASTY SANDWICH FILLINGS.

Anchovy Butter

Soak four or five anchovies in warm water, dry them and remove skin and bones. Pound in a mortar with 3 oz. of butter, season with a little pepper and rub through a sieve. Press into a jar and keep in a very cool place.

Ham Butter

Chop 4oz. of cooked ham very finely, pound it in a mortar and add 4oz. of butter and four dessert-spoonfuls of cream. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne, and use the same or next day.

Parsley Butter

Take a large handful of very green parsley, just cover it with water and leave the lid off the pan as it boils for five minutes. Put under the cold water tap immediately, then strip the leaves from the stalks and chop very fine. Bent with four ounces of butter and add a little bloater or anchovy paste to give it a flavour.

Mock Crab

Rub the yolk of a hard-boiled egg to a smooth paste with a tablespoonful of oil. Add a teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and made mustard and a dash of cayenne. When well mixed add a quarter of a pound of grated Canadian cheese and a tablespoonful of vinegar season with onion juice. Mix very well together.

Mac-treller Butter

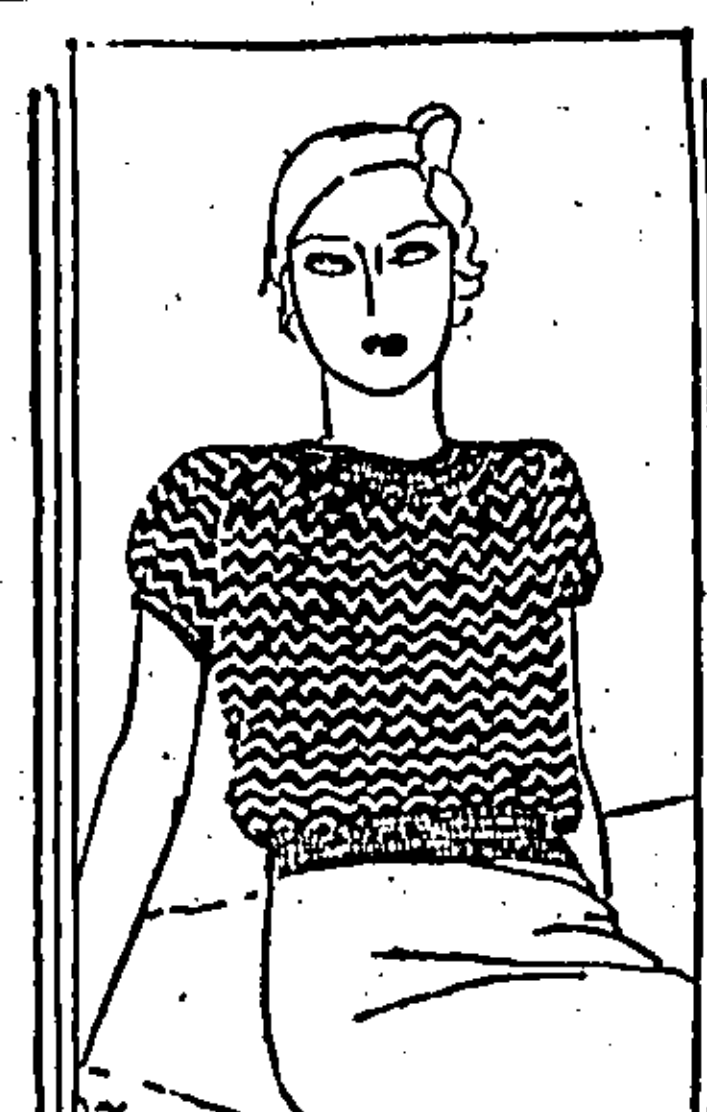

Take an ounce each of parsley, chervil, spring onions and watercress, and put in a saucepan with a shallot, half a clove of garlic, cover with cold water and bring to the boil. Drain well, dry in a cloth and chop. Wash three anchovies in warm water, remove the bones and pound with the herbs, four ounces of butter and the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, adding two dessert-spoonfuls of olive oil and one of vinegar gradually. Rub through a sieve and season to taste.

Curry Butter

Mix three ounces of butter with a teaspoonful of curry powder, a pinch of cayenne and quarter of a teaspoonful of black pepper. Use sparingly, with plenty of lettuce or watercress.

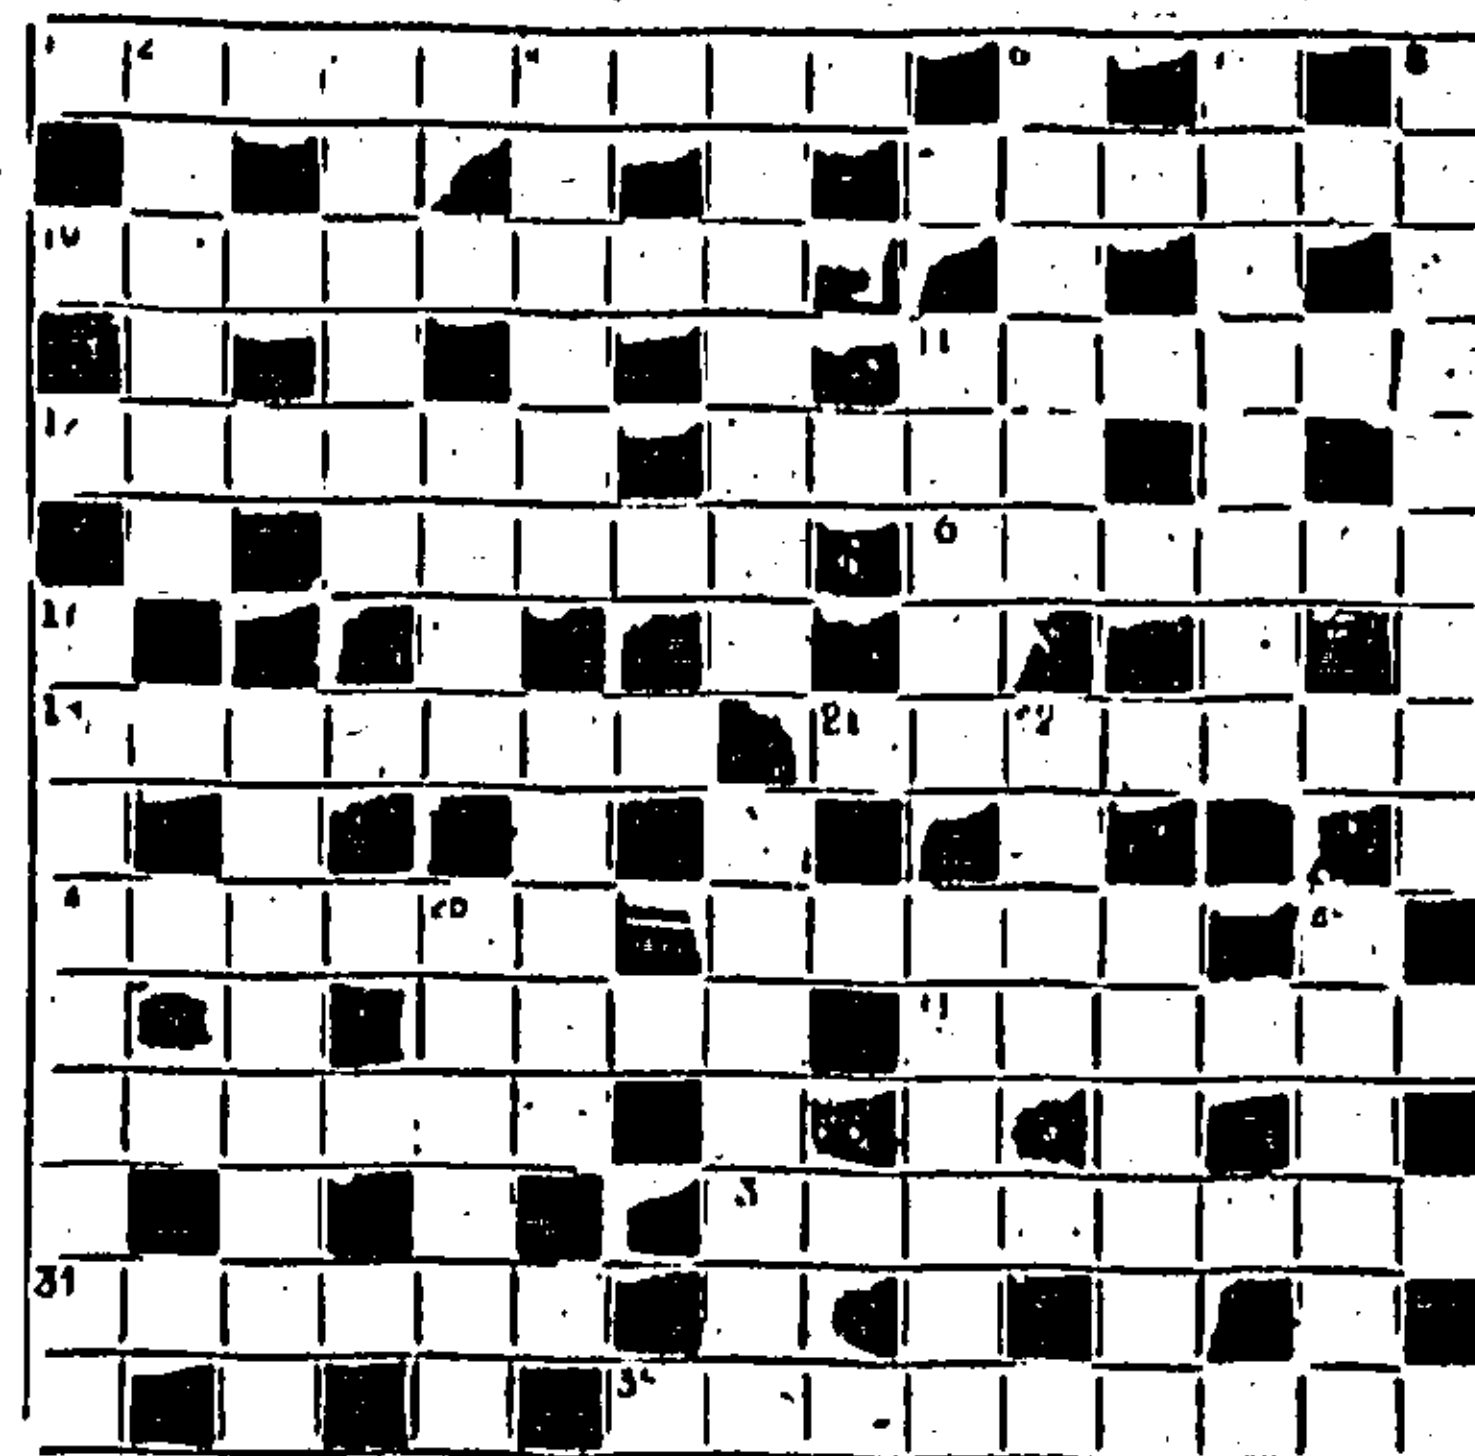

Potted Shrimps

Shell a pint of shrimps, season with pepper and salt and a taste of pounded cloves and pack tightly into pots. Put a little butter over the top, put in a moderate oven for ten minutes and when cold cover with melted butter.

Par says the smart blouse to wear with your new autumn suit is hand crocheted cotton. This chic model with the high round neck is lacy and feminine and very simple to make. It has alternate stripes of white and brown, or white and any dark colour which harmonizes with your costume.

AN ANCIENT EVIL

The League of Nations Assembly has had to review, among many other international problems, the work being done under its aegis to suppress slavery. The material which formed the basis of its discussions is the report of a committee of experts who were appointed last year. The business of the committee was to find out to what extent the Slavery Convention of 1926 has been successful in putting an end to those last vestiges of this ancient evil which the League had discovered still existing in the world six years ago. Those who served on the committee were men of long experience in colonial administration, like M. Angoulvent, a former Governor of French West Africa, M. Zedda who served the whole of his governmental career in the Italian colonies and Lord Lugard, a member of the League's Permanent Mandates Commission and a former Governor of Hongkong and of Nigeria.

From the information received, and excluding Liberia with which another League Committee is specifically dealing, the experts come to the following interesting conclusion. Slave-raiding in the old form of vast organised operations such as still existed only thirty years ago in Africa has completely disappeared, though sporadic and small raids still occur on the frontiers of certain states like

Abyssinia, where the authority of the Central Government does not cover the whole territory of the state. There are still slave markets in certain Arab States on the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, and a few Moslem States of Arabia have not yet abolished slavery either in law or fact. Slave trading between the coasts of Africa and Arabia goes on in secret in spite of the active watch of British, French and Italian warships, though the presence of these forces the slave trader to carry on his ghastly traffic under difficulties. The experts recommend that to cope with this evil adequately the League should exert moral pressure by refusing admission to the League to any state which does not first of all promise—as Abyssinia was made to promise on her entry to the League—that every effort will be made to abolish slavery. The experts further suggest that the League should urge its Member States not to conclude treaties of commerce or friendship with these states unless they promise to abolish slavery and the slave market. There is one Christian State, Abyssinia, which has not yet completely rid itself of slavery but the experts recognise that the Central Government are making every effort though the process is bound to be slow as the emancipation movement is dead against native custom and tradition.

Finally, the experts urge that the greatest need is to guarantee a successful campaign which can only be secured by the creation of a permanent Slavery Commission under the League. "The very existence of this Commission," says the report of experts, would have the advantage of keeping public interest in the slavery question awake and more particularly of acting as a stimulus to States in which slavery exists to make every effort for its abolition, if only by degrees." This was the proposal unsuccessfully advanced by the British Government at the League's 1930 Assembly and now that the suggestion has been supported by the League's own experts, it should command the support of every Member state of the League, and every man and woman throughout the world who wishes this blot on our civilisation finally removed.

International Currency

The announcement of a scheme for the introduction of a new international currency, to be called Barte, has naturally aroused considerable interest. Does it offer a means of tackling the great problem of winning the world back to a common currency standard? Broadly speaking, the nations are divided into two main currency groups, one adhering to the gold standard and the other clinging somehow to what is known as the sterling bloc. Many nations, of course, fall in neither one class nor the other. But their future policy will be affected by whatever decision can be reached between these two main communities. Great Britain as the leader of the sterling bloc has as yet declared no definite currency policy. But indications of a trend are not wanting. It seems reasonably clear that the days of a managed pound unlinked to any metal are numbered. The tendency in British official circles seems to lie in the direction of a return to monetarism, with gold as the standard. The main problem, from the British standpoint, is concerned not so much with the internal conditions precedent to the re-establishment of the gold standard as with the lack of agreement upon the manner in which the gold standard should be managed. Evidence is given in the Macmillan report to the effect that no international standard can possibly survive the impediments in economic relations that have flowered in the post-war world. Gold in pre-war days used to be maintained in due proportions in each gold standard country by a process of almost automatic regulation. The incoming gold advanced commodity prices to an extent that attracted foreign goods soon after the metal had arrived. In payment for these goods, gold flowed out again. But tariffs and other obstacles that can be height-

"Love Me To-night," the Paramount production starring Jennette Macdonald and Maurice Chevalier, drew crowded houses to the King's Theatre yesterday, and everybody went away delighted with the fare offered. Splendidly produced, full of the most amusing situations, and revealing the two main stars at their best, the film has all the ingredients of a bright and happy show. There are also some quite catchy tunes, while the leading pair are strongly attracted by a cat which has been admirably chosen. On no account miss this attraction.

ened at a moment's notice have provoked such automatic regulation in the post-war world. Other monkey wrenches would clank against the smooth operation of an international standard. Trade quotas, exchange regulations, central banking policies—they are all obstacles, and, like tariff policies, must be harmonised in some fashion in order that a currency standard can be made universal again. Barte claims to jump all these difficulties by making commodities themselves the currency standard.

WIVES WHO RE-MARRY THEIR HUSBANDS

By MARGERY LAWRENCE

A GOOD deal of interest has been excited by another case just reported of a couple married, divorced, and then remarried to each other. It is probably not generally realised that this is by no means extraordinary—the numbers of married couples who part, marry other people, and then, sometimes after many years, come together again, is quite surprisingly large. In the year 1929, inquiries made in the London register offices alone showed that during that year between sixty and seventy couples had come together again after being divorced, and it is safe to say that if the provincial registers were combed they would yield many more instances. Nor is it a modern occurrence, as a record made in August 1604 proves. In this case, one "Rapha Goodchild" and Elizabeth, once his wife, but long parted from him and married to another, joined hands and took upon themselves vows that they were "right soles" for their foolishness, and renewed their promises to perform all the duties that they first promised in their marriage. I have heard people say, "How idiotic! Why, if they want to marry each other again now, why don't they ever quarrel to start with?" The answer to that seems to me obvious: it is generally youth, and youth's intolerance, that is at fault. Few of us marry for the first time without going through a period of disillusionment more or less severe. Few of us realise how entirely idiotic—how presumptuous—it is of us, imperfect and tiresome and faulty as we are, to demand faultlessness of the person we marry: which, in effect, we do in youth, deny it as we may. Petty Annoyances of First Marriage. "How awful," we women cry in shocked voices, "for John to put his soapy shaving brush next to my lovely satin wrapper! Aren't men filthy?" It never occurs to us that we are just as "filthy" to John when we leave our powder-box just where it can upset over his dress coat, or leave a sachet in one of his drawers by mistake until he smells like the Burlington Arcade—a thing loathsome to a degree to a normal man! It never occurs to us how unkind and thoughtless we are to be late for a train, so that John (who has an urgent business appointment at the other end of the journey) has to hurry, getting worried and anxious. What sort of shame is he going to be in to deal with an important business interview at the end of the journey?

A crying sin among women is unkindness, and peculiarly prevalent among idle women. Show me a woman who is invariably late for every appointment, and you will show me a woman with nothing on earth to do with her time but please herself! In early days we are all too apt to see the mote in our partner's eyes while failing to see the beam in our own . . . and so the quarrels start, and what started out as a romance becomes a case for the newspapers. "So-and-so v. So-and-so"—the third person only too often someone taken out of sheer desire to hurt; taken up and then found difficult to shelve, as one man said to me dismally as his divorce was going through. "I started an affair with Molly simply because she was Janet's best friend, and I knew it was the one way to make Janet wild. But now Molly's gone and got so desperately serious that I shall have to marry her, I suppose. It's my own fault, I know, but it's damnable! If only Janet and I hadn't been such fools—but now she's tied up with that fellow Sinclair, so there we are, and there's nothing to be done."

I told him that it was quite within the bounds of possibility that Janet was feeling the same way about him, and advised him going to see her. But the usual pride raised his head, and they did not . . . and the divorce went through, and there, I am convinced, were two people who really loved each other, but had not yet learnt to forgive each other their little human weaknesses.

Separation Makes the Heart Grow Fonder. Parting for some time is an excellent cure for that fretfulness and irritability that overtakes even the happiest married couples at times! But parting by means of a divorce is rather drastic, since one is all too apt then, driven by loneliness, to contract fresh ties; and then things are complicated by new responsibilities, and whether licit or illicit, these cannot fairly be shelved in a hurry.

I should advocate occasional holidays apart for all married couples, and I take one every year myself apart from my husband; during the separation one is able to sit back and "size life up," as it were, quietly and fairly. Then the little things that irritate one in one's life-partner seem less important, and the fine and worth-while qualities stand out; and one goes back refreshed and full of a new will to make life happy and successful. Loneliness is an excellent cure for peevishness, and countless divorce cases start from peevishness on the part of the woman and lack of patience in the man! I like to hear of a once-divorced couple coming together again. But ordinarily, when two people, once divorced, remarry, it is a safe bet that they love each other truly; that the separation brought to both a painful realisation of their value to each other . . . and that the bond between them will be, in future, not merely a social contract but a marriage of true hearts.

GOOD OLD RE-PUB!

By Edward Killy, Scrutiner.

Well, it looks as if we and Frankie Roosevelt will have to run the United States for the next four years.

Pity our first name isn't Johnny. We know some rhymes about Frankie and Johnny.

We had a lot to do with the American elections. It was us who, snowed under with confetti and pieces of paper thrown from the upper floors of the skyscrapers, led the enormous anti-prohibition procession down Fifth Avenue.

Massed bands preceded us. There were Sousa bands, German bands, Jazz bands and Military bands. There were gangs of bands.

There were also bands of gangs. Chicago gangs, New York gangs, and all the other gangs that have made the American motion picture industry what it is to-day.

Prohibition was defeated from that day. No one who saw us can forget the stirring spectacle. Our proud hearts beat high, as preceded by the bands (see above), and chased by the gangs (ditto) we marched down Broadway.

A million voices took up the refrain as the massed bands struck up the refrain of "Land of HOPS and Glory."

It was the largest, most stupendous, longest, greatest, widest procession in the whole wide world.

Overhead the stately Akron, largest dirigible in the world, saluted us.

Other records may be inspected at this office, between the hours of 2.00 and 2.05 p.m. daily. Admission free.

We would have still been in that procession, only someone throwing a stock exchange ticker tape at us from the 90th floor of the world's highest building forgot to detach the ticker machine.

It was fourteen days before the doctor knew who we were, and six weeks before we'd . . . Anyway, we got Roosevelt in, so what does it matter. And anytime the Americans are dissatisfied with him, as President, all they've got to do is to look us over.

Personally, we think that "Hops" gets in makes no difference.

EXTENSION OF THE MORATORIUM

stated at the time, was to relieve the pressure of the difficulties resulting from the fall in prices and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability and to assure the establishment of confidence.

NOT REALISED.

"The hopes which were raised by the President of the United States have unfortunately not been realised and the economic troubles the moratorium was designed to alleviate have not come to an end.

"Indeed, in October of last year, a communiqué published at Washington on the occasion of Monsieur Laval's visit already recognised that 'prior to the expiration of the Hoover Year, some agreement on inter-governmental obligations may be necessary covering the period of business depression. The initiative in this matter should be taken early by the European powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to 15th July 1931.'

FURTHER MEASURES.

"To-day many thoughtful men throughout the world are convinced that if the depression is to be overcome, further remedial measures must be sought.

"It was in accordance with the above recommendation that in June last the European creditor powers met at Lausanne to agree on a lasting settlement of the problem created by the inter-governmental payments in respect of reparations. The statement of the agreements reached on June 9th aims at the ultimate termination of all reparation payments.

"It represents the maximum contribution in the field of inter-governmental finance which the Governments concerned have so far been able to make towards that early restoration of world prosperity in which the people of the United States, no less than those of the British Commonwealth of Nations, have so deep an interest and for the achievement of which the co-operation of the United States is essential.

"To speak of the remedial measures that may have to be adopted, it is not proposed now to say more than that in the recent past, the British Government have frequently expressed their view and that neither in the realm of theory nor in that of fact are they able to find any reason for amending it.

"They believe that the regime of inter-governmental financial obligations as now existing must be reviewed.

POSTPONEMENT OF PAYMENTS.

"They are profoundly impressed with the importance of acting quickly and they earnestly hope that the United States Government will see its way to enter into an exchange of views at the earliest possible moment.

"The immediate objective of the present Note, however, is of a more limited nature.

"On December 15th next, an instalment of the British war debts is due to be paid. It is not possible to hope that an agreement can be achieved in five weeks on matters of such vast scope.

"Confronted last summer with a similar difficulty, the conference of Lausanne found it necessary, in order to allow its work to proceed undisturbed, to reserve during the period of the conference the execution of the payments due to the participating Powers.

AS AT LAUSANNE.

"The British Government hope that a similar procedure may now be followed and ask for a suspension of the payments due from them for the period of the discussions now suggested or for any other period that may be agreed upon.

"The British Government believe that the proposed discussions could best begin in Washington, but on this point, as well as on others touched upon in the present Note, they await the expression of the views of the United States Government."—Reuter and British Wireless.

THE FRENCH NOTE CONSENT TO HEAVY SACRIFICES.

Paris, Nov. 14.

The French Note to the United States follows very much the same lines as the British.

The French Government asks for an extension of the moratorium and for the re-opening of the whole of the debts question, expressing the view that such action would have an excellent effect on the world monetary crisis.

SCHEME FOR EAST OUTLINED

In a talk with Mr. Randall, the advance representative of the Java Carnival Shows, some very interesting data was given us on their Java tour, which has just finished. It appears that each year in Java in the four big cities, Batavia, Soerabaya, Semarang and Bandoeng yearly exhibitions are held. They are operated by committees of well-known local gentlemen, and he understands though not having financial help from the Government they have their support. Well-known local firms rent stands which are generally of a most artistic design. Arts and crafts and local industries are well represented, there are stands showing Java's imports and exports, railway system, etc. These are exhibited in the form of very ingenious models, good restaurants with first class dancing floors and of course no exhibition would be a success if the amusements side were neglected. Messrs. Churchill and Tait fill this want. This firm has an agreement with these exhibitions in Java for a number of years to provide the amusements and each year sees them in Java with five or six of the latest riding devices also a large number of side shows which often include some of the best obtainable from Europe and America. These attractions are brought out by them for the Manila Carnival the great yearly event of the Philippines in January and from there they go to Java.

Now, Mr. Randall's idea is that it would be a great business proposition if a chain of international exhibitions could be arranged to include say Java, Manila, Hongkong, Saigon, Bangkok, Singapore and Medan. He contends that, put on a proper business basis there would be no telling as to what benefits each country would derive from such a scheme. Naturally it would want a lot of working out, and the Governments of each country would, to make it an unqualified success, have to take more than a superficial interest in it.

A peculiar point in this is, that the best time for holding such exhibitions would never clash; Hongkong, October-November; Saigon, December; Manila, January-February; Bangkok, March; Singapore, April; Medan, May; and the four cities in Java June-September.

Mr. Randall's idea is that in each exhibition there would be an international section, so that if, say, the exhibition were in Batavia, in the international section there would be one stand representing Hongkong. This would naturally have to be built to represent something applicable to the island. Not too big or costly but something so artistic and unique to the other countries that it would rivet the attention of all the passers-by. Inside would be represented the arts and crafts of Hongkong, general business, information to the tourists, etc.

The great possibilities of Hongkong for a short holiday during the winter months to some people in Java who cannot, for various reasons go to Europe would, he is sure, catch on and vice versa for Hongkong residents visiting Java. Steamship lines would, it is supposed, make special quotations. All this must lead to further trade between the other countries and bring buyers more together.

In such a scheme, Mr. Randall, of course, does not try to hide the great advantages it would be to the organization he is at present representing, but he states with such a chain of exhibitions his firm could bring from Europe and America the very best and latest attractions, and as everyone knows to make any exhibition a success financially it must have first-class amusements.

The Note recalls that the French Government have already voluntarily consented to extremely heavy sacrifices at Lausanne, but declares that financial difficulties in Europe are hindering the resumption of normal international relations.

IN INTERESTS OF ALL.

Persistence in a fresh effort to put an end to the financial problems of the world is necessary in the interests of all concerned.

The Note affirms France's attitude at the Lausanne and Stresa Conferences and guarantees her active interest in speedy economic restoration of Europe.

It is in this spirit, says the communiqué, that France proposes a fresh examination of the war debts question and in view of the time which must be taken, France asks for a prolongation of the suspension of payments so that the examination of the grave problems at present in suspension may be completed in an atmosphere of confidence.—Reuter.

COLLISION CASE AGAIN

N.Y.K. SEEK APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL

An application for special leave to appeal to the Privy Council against the Chief Justice's judgment on the Toyoko Maru—Kiangsu collision case, was made in the Supreme Court this morning.

The collision took place off Kowloon Dock Point in a fog last year. The N.Y.K. sued the China Navigation Company for $40,000 damages, and the C.N.C. counter-claimed for $40,000. Judgment was given for the owners of the s.s. Kiangsu.

The N.Y.K. are seeking leave to appeal to the Privy Council against this decision.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Messrs. Hastings Denny and Bowley, appeared for the appellants, and Mr. P. C. Jenkin, instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, for the China Navigation Company.

Mr. Sheldon said:—On the 30th day of April 1931 the respondents commenced their action against the appellants by the issue of a Writ of Summons in person.

The respondents as owners of the ship "Kiangsu" claimed the sum of $40,000 against the appellants as the owners of the ship "Toyoko Maru" for damage occasioned by collision which took place off Kowloon Dock Point in the waters of Hongkong on the 22nd day of March 1931 and for costs.

The trial of the action came on for hearing before His Honour Sir Joseph Kemp C.B.E., Chief Justice on the 16th, 17th and 18th of December 1931 and the 12th, 13th and 14th January 1932, and on the 19th day of February, 1932 His Honour the Chief Justice delivered judgment in the action in favour of the respondents.

On the 16th day of March 1932 the above named appellants filed a notice of motion to the Full Court that the decision of His Honour the Chief Justice be reversed and that the respondents be adjudged to pay the appellants' costs of the said action and the costs of the said appeal.

The motion was heard before this Court consisting of Their Honours, Sir Peter Grain, the Chief Judge, (President), Sir Joseph Kemp, Chief Justice, and the Puisne Judge Mr. Justice J. R. Wood sitting together on the 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th of July 1932 and the 3rd of August 1932. On the 16th day of August 1932 Their Honours Sir Peter Grain and Mr. Justice Wood delivered judgment in favour of the respondents and His Honour Sir Joseph Kemp gave judgment in favour of the appellants and the appeal was therefore dismissed with costs. The matter in dispute on the appeal amounts to or is of the value of more than $5,000.

The petitioners therefore ask that this Court grant to the petitioners, the above named appellants, leave to appeal from the said judgment of this Honourable Court to His Majesty the King in Council; That this Court may make such further or other order in the said premises as may seem just. My instructions are to ask for the suspension of execution of this judgment.

NO STAY OF JUDGMENT.

Mr. Jenkin: I oppose the application for suspension of the judgment. The applicant must do more than merely say that the Court can do so. He must put forward special grounds for the application to be granted. That is an established practice. There must be an affidavit setting out the special circumstances or else the Court will not grant the stay.

Their Lordships granted leave to appeal in the usual affirmation of $5,000 security and three months security, with six months for record and no stay.

SECOND APPLICATION ALLEGED USURPATION OF AUTHORITY

A similar application was made by Mr. Duncan McNeill, instructed by Messrs. A. E. Hall and Co., on behalf of the King Kuk Wo firm, of Hainan, and partners of the firm.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., instructed by Mr. M. K. Lo, appeared for the respondent-plaintiff, Chong Pin-kun, married woman, of 52, Lockhart Road, Victoria.

The case related to a claim by respondent for $28,000, the principle of which was deposited by her with the appellant-defendants in Hongkong on February 25 under a deposit receipt made and given by the defendants, and the remaining sum of $5,000, balance of interest on $23,000 due to respondent-plaintiff.

At the hearing of the case in October 1930 judgment was given for respondent for $28,000 and costs by the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp.

Mr. McNeill said defendants in the original case were dissatisfied with the result. He quoted numerous authorities in support of his application and stated there was not a bit of evidence to support respondent-plaintiff's claim.

Mr. Potter said there was no suggestion that the chop on the deposit receipt was other than the genuine chop of the firm. The defence claimed that at a certain period a certain man usurped authority in the firm, and that he entered into control of the firm as far back as December 1929 and was in control of that firm at the time when the deposit receipt was issued in February 1930. If a firm allowed a man to stay in control and took no steps to turn him out the firm was bound. On the evidence there was no suggestion that the firm did not know he was in control.

The application was refused.

WELL PASSED SIR—The Hongkong Club scored a very creditable victory against the Army in a rugby match on Saturday. This picture shows one of the Army players in the act of passing to a colleague with S. J. H. Fox and other Club players in attendance. (Photo: Ming Yuen).

McElney's Hooking Plays Big Part in Club's Rugby Success

ALTERED PACK GIVES GOOD ACCOUNT OF ITSELF AGAINST THE ARMY

(By "Fly Half")

With a re-organised pack which more than held its own and McElney hooking like a hero throughout the game, the Rugby Club enjoyed a splendid win against the Army at Sookunpoo on Saturday, the final score reading 8 points (one converted goal and a penalty goal) to 3 points (one try).

The Club turned out a side containing several new players, Sney, Kears, Macintosh, and others, who were on the injured list, and Sney, Kears, and Macintosh were the mainstays of the team. Sney, Kears, and Macintosh were the mainstays of the team. Sney, Kears, and Macintosh were the mainstays of the team.

The pack was completely re-organised with Cogan, MacElney, and Garrod forming the front row, Macintosh and Hall-Thompson an experimental second row, and Macintosh and Hall-Thompson an experimental second row, and Macintosh and Hall-Thompson an experimental second row.

McElney's hooking was the key to the Club's success. He hooked the ball into the hands of the forwards, who were able to break through the Army's defence. McElney's hooking was the key to the Club's success.

With the whole of the back row playing well, the altered pack was giving a fine account of itself against the Army's forwards. The Army's forwards were unable to break through the Club's defence.

FAST ARMY BACKS.

Apart from the tendency (common apparently) to put the ball crookedly into the scrum, Hoskins was better than Macintosh, whose service was weak, though his defence was as good as ever. Thus the Army backs were quicker on the move, and from one opening from the ten-yard line, Stevens cut through beautifully to send Hamilton over near the corner. Lloyd made a magnificent shot at goal, the ball curving in the last few yards to miss the top of the post by inches. For the rest of the first half the Army were the livelier side, though I think the referee was rather lenient to their forwards over outside and picking the ball out of the scrum.

They played with difficulty in retaining their points lead till the interval. The second half was largely a repetition of the first, though Lammert was given the opportunity to make one or two good runs for the Club.

Ferguson was defending splendidly, giving Martin no rope, but he had no chance in attack owing to the uncertain handling and passing of the centre, and the slowness of Macintosh's service. This handicapped Turner, who was content merely to hand on the ball. He has an elusive run and I think he might have tried an occasional cut through, or short kick ahead to vary his tactics. As it was the Army defence knew what to expect and gave the other Club backs little chance. Turner's defensive kicking was good, on the other hand Stevens seemed to be obsessed with the idea that he could repeat his first half cut through. He tried repeatedly, but nearly always slipped in braving Turner. As a result, the other Army backs were starved.

CLUB RETALIATE.

So the game went on with fumbles by both full backs causing the noise thrills, until Miller suddenly broke away from a line out on the Army "B" and strongly and then passed to McElney, who beat his man, and gave to McElney, for the latter to run right round and touch down under the posts. He himself converted the try, and the Club led 3-0. Just before the end he kicked a second penalty goal for a scrumage offence.

EWIN WON'T FIGHT

WANTS BIGGER PURSE

BOXING MEET CANCELLED

MORRIS READY

(By "Veritas")

Contrary to hopes and expectations, the Hongkong Boxing Association will not be staging its opening tournament on November 19.

This prospective date has been definitely cancelled, but it is expected to be re-arranged for December 3. This decision is the largely the result of the promoters being unable at the last minute to get Ewin to agree to fight Siemman Morris for the middle weight title of the Colony.

Ewin demands a bigger purse than the Association is prepared to offer. I understand he was guaranteed a return of £1,000 in December but turned this down.

OPPONENT WANTED.

The promoters are now looking for a suitable opponent for Morris, who is only too anxious to get on the ring and fight for the middleweight belt.

Morris has already won five championships, and at the present holds the welterweight belt of Hongkong. Unfortunately this popular fighter is on his home next year, and his departure will be a distinct loss to local boxing.

Outside the Army 25, and this ended the scoring.

A CONDESCENDING GAME.

The club have every reason to be satisfied with the game and the result. Fox made two or three fumbles which put the Club line in danger but recovered well and usually found touch with his kicks. He did not seem to be too sure of his foothold, probably his studs needed attention. He was an improvement on Riggs, and definitely better than Birt who played a condescending game. His holding and kicking were alike poor, and he got away with two marks which he seemed to make as afterthoughts. The Army three-quarters had few chances in attack owing to Stevens's vigilance, but all defended strongly. Of the forwards, he of the red hair (Harley I believe) was magnificent and Crewdson also played splendidly, especially in the line out.

The Club backs defended very well, but in attack were only mediocre, and this was the cause for the win must go to the pack. As I have said before McElney was a first class hooker though his injured ribs compelled him to go easy otherwise, and Garrod also worked well. Macintosh and Hall-Thompson in their new positions played up like horses. No only criticism of them is that they packed a little high but if they can only settle down there, it ought to be possible to have a first class scrum round them.

The back row Miller, McEllean, and Cox, all did their work, though McEllean was badly marked about and seemed all in at the end.

NAVY ON TOP CLUB THOROUGHLY SUBDUED

(By "Veritas").

Never did the Club appear likely to avert defeat when they met the Navy at the Valley on Saturday, and the nautical's victory of two-nil was fully justified.

The Navy were continually dominating the exchanges, the half backs maintaining a tight grip on the movements of the Club forwards, whilst their own attackers were a constant source of anxiety to Rodger, Martin and Hynes.

Shirras, the visitors' centre-half stood out as one of the finest players on the field, completely bottling up Howe, and keeping his wings well supplied with long forwards passes. He also received sound support from his flank intermediates, Robinson and Robertson, the former smothering Fowler and rendering busy his efforts to break through whilst Robertson, although given a stiffer task by Williams, who tried gamely throughout to discover a weak spot in the Navy defence, put in some useful constructive work.

GOOD ALL ROUND.

So well did the Navy forwards combine that it is difficult to signal one out above another, but Perkins was certainly an active leader and was certainly seeking to embarrass the Club rear line with his quick rushes and the judicious use of weight. There was nothing wrong with the Navy defence, Kinchin clearing promptly and cleanly when called upon—which was but seldom. He was splendidly protected by Gilbert and Lind who polished off the spilling work of the halves and rendered the Club attack a very insignificant feature of the game.

It would be useless to attempt to upbraid the Club for they were beaten by a definitely better side. This fact, of course, exposed their weaknesses, comparisons with the Navy in all departments save that of goal-keeping being anything but complimentary.

Rodger, possibly a little at fault over the first goal, otherwise played a sterling game and averted at least three more goals for which the Navy would have been full worth.

POLISHED HYNES.

Martin was rather outclassed at right back, but Hynes gave another polished display. He is by far the most promising junior in the Club team and is fast developing into one of the best defenders in the League. The half backs, forced to concede, not seen to advantage and whatever opening work they accomplished was quickly ruined by the Naval defence.

Howe, gave another indecisive display, not only failing to turn two wonderful goal-scoring opportunities to account, but also allowing himself to be subjugated by the tireless Shirras.

FOOTBALL AT ITS BEST

SAINTS & CHINESE SHARE SPOILS

Whilst teams like the Athletic and St. Joseph's can serve up football as they did yesterday, local soccer will remain in a very healthy state.

The clash of these teams, which saw a three-all draw for league points, provided one of the most fast and thrilling games of the season to date and the big crowd assembled at the Club grounds were kept at a fever pitch of excitement as the exchanges swung rapidly from one end of the field to the other.

If the fact that St. Joseph's were more on the defensive than the Athletic is taken into consideration, they will probably be regarded as fortunate in taking away one of the points, but one also has to bear in mind the brilliance of the Saints forwards when on the move (and in particular the Gosano brothers), who were just as dangerous in front of goal in fact even more so—as the Athletic.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS.

In a game where twenty-two players worked with a will, it is a little impossible to single out any particular performer, but there is no denying the fact that the outstanding players were Suen Kam-shun, who led the Athletic forwards in dazzling style, A. V. and B. Gosano, who gave their best exhibition of the season, and Gomes and Marques, who continually frustrated the determined Chinese attacks.

The manner in which the Gosano brothers strove for the equaliser and secured it in the closing minutes was a wonderful display of individualism, rewarded in the most fitting way possible. The Athletic simply monopolised the game in the first ten minutes leading one to believe that they would enjoy a runaway victory. Suen Kam-shun netted after a perfect movement by the forward line, but the reverse acted as a stimulant to the Saints, who began to settle down, and to take up the attack. It resulted in A. V. Gosano netting from a corner, and a minute later B. Gosano placed his team ahead.

LEAD LOST AND WON.

The Athletic started the second half a goal to the bad, and they literally swarmed round the Saints goal to knock off this arrears. Suen shot from all angles without success, and then Mok Shue-hon produced one of his lightning shots from a free kick when had Marques beaten all the way.

Immediately Suen Kam-shun capped this with another goal, and then Gomes distinguished himself with some game play until the pressure was relieved. The Saints took up the running. (Continued from Page 9.)

WEEK END HOCKEY

RADIO WELL HELD

CREDITABLE DRAW FOR MEDWAY

MAMAK LEAGUE TABLE

(By "Bully Off")

As I predicted on Friday the game of the week-end was the meeting on Saturday between the Radio Sports Club and H.M.S. Medway in the Mamak Competition. The teams played to a goal-less draw and as a result maintain their unbeaten records in the tournament.

The clash of these foremost exponents of hockey in the league produced a high standard of play and the exchanges throughout were fast and brilliant. The chief fault with the Radio forwards was their departure from sound passing tactics to individual dribbling and it was persistence in this respect that spoiled their chances of victory. As it was the Naval centre line found little difficulty in holding them. In the second half the Radio goal underwent many anxious moments, Hawgood, the Medway leader having had luck on two occasions. Dunn and M. H. Hussain, at centre-half for the Medway and Radio respectively, were in good form and both played very destructive games.

TRAGEDY IN WIGAN COLLIERY.

DEATH ROLL ALREADY AMOUNTS TO 24

London, Nov. 12. Already it is ascertained that 24 were killed and many injured in an explosion at Garwood Hall colliery, Edge Green, near Wigan, during a night shift early to-day, when over a hundred men were at work.

Although the accident occurred at 3 o'clock this morning, rescue operations were quickly organised, and a party of 60 fought for seven hours through the deadly "fire damp" before reaching the scene of disaster.

The explosion occurred 300 yards below the surface, where 24 bodies have already been discovered.

Many were so terribly burned as to render them unrecognisable. It is feared that the death toll will amount to 28, as four men are still missing and unaccounted for.

The Explosion.

There were 106 men in the pit when the disaster occurred. Two

TEA PRODUCERS' AGREEMENT.

SETTLEMENT OF ANGLO-DUTCH QUESTION

Batavia, Nov. 12. A complete agreement has been reached between the British and Dutch tea producers regarding the question as to which year shall be the basis for determining the intensity of restriction of production. According to a local paper, British India, Ceylon and Java have yet to choose their boom years, and it is not yet certain whether the restriction will be fixed at 15 or 20 per cent. Reuter.

dozen are believed dead, three slightly injured and three seriously injured. Seventy-two escaped or were rescued unhurt, whilst four are unaccounted for.

The explosion was slight and there was no fire, but there were very few survivors of men working in the spot in which the disaster occurred. More than a dozen rescue teams at once began operations, but their work was seriously hampered by the presence of dense volumes of "fire damp." Reuter and British Wireless.

1,700 KILLED BY TIDAL WAVE.

CUBAN TOWN DESTROYED FOR EVER

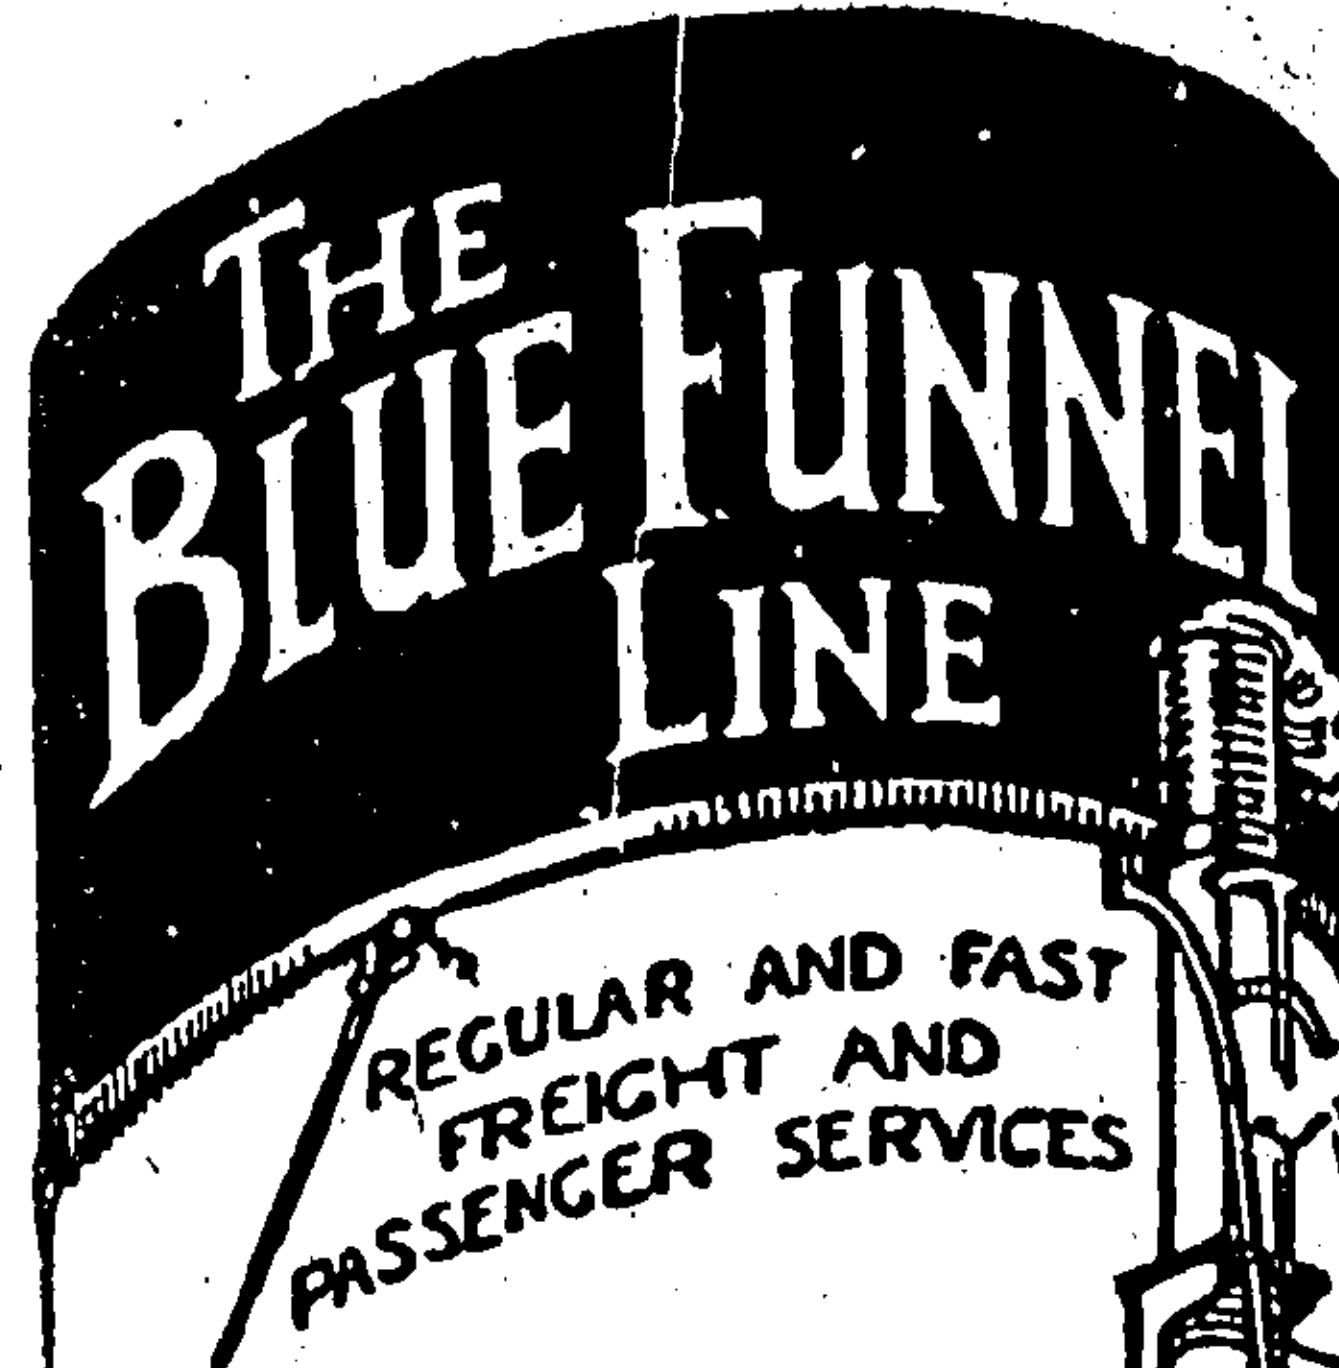

Camaguey, Nov. 13. A tidal wave which devastated the coast town of Santa Cruz del Sur has left it unfit for human habitation and it may never be rebuilt.

The exact number of deaths will probably never be known, as the retreating wave carried many bodies out to sea.

Over 800 bodies have already been buried, but for the safeguard of health and living it has been decided to burn the remaining corpses.

The official estimates place the dead at 1,700.

The British Islands of Little Cayman and Caymanbrac, 150 miles from Jamaica were also devastated by a hurricane and over 60 killed and hundreds injured. All the Government buildings were destroyed by the terrible visitation.—Our Own Correspondent.

ARMISTICE DINNER.

BIG GATHERING AT THE PENINSULA HOTEL

The Ex-Active Service men's dinner at the Peninsula Hotel on Armistice Night was a great success, with an attendance of over 130 people, including guests. The gathering included, besides the British contingent, a number of ex-service men of the Allied forces, and the international spirit of fraternity was kept up by the mingling at the festive board of French, American, Russian and Italian residents with their British comrades of the war years.

The dinner was held on the sixth floor, where splendid decorations had been arranged under the skilled supervision of Mr. R. Tattersall, R.N., who was responsible for a most effective scheme. The excellent menu and the delightful smoking concert that followed, the proceedings lasting until one o'clock in the morning, helped to make the reunion an occasion to be remembered.

Mr. J. Hosford presided, and Sgt. Hollingsworth, R.E., took the part of "Old Bill" and issued rum in approved style. The menu card formed an acceptable souvenir, with a clever design on the lines of "Old soldiers never die," drawn by Mr. Stan Hill. A "Housey Housey" run by Mr. Joe Beach realised $12, which will go to war charities.

The smoking concert was contributed to by Mr. Rex Anderson, Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan, Mr. N. J. Robinson, Mr. F. Gornall (and assistant), Mr. J. L. Gecks, and Mr. J. Coney.

Thanks are expressed by the committee to the hotel management for the excellent organisation.

UGLY SITUATION DEVELOPING

Geneva, Nov. 12. An ugly situation is developing in Geneva and two more battalions from Valais have been summoned to the city.

One Geneva battalion, after fraternising with demonstrators, were confined under guard in the Exhibition Building, but they broke the window of the ground floor and sang the Internationale, joking with the people outside.

Genevans abused the Valaisans for coming into the city, and the Valaisan commander, taking no risks, ordered a fire hose to be played on the crowd.

Booing ensued and some of the more venturesome of the demonstrators were ready to attempt to seize the hose, but were disarmed on hearing the order to fix bayonets.

Police with drawn sabres then charged the mob, which dispersed.

Quiet at Midnight.

Later. All was quiet in the city at midnight, the troops having been withdrawn to barracks, whilst rain drove the demonstrators indoors.

There are now 10,000 troops in Geneva, or one soldier to every 15 inhabitants.

Yesterday the crowds were never very large and were well behaved except for a few rowdies amongst the demonstrators around the barracks, who were composed mostly of youths, many of them students.

Apart from booing and the singing of the Internationale there was not the slightest indication of dangerous feeling.

The soldiers have not seemed to regard the situation at all seriously.—Reuter.

HELENA MAY CONCERT.PIANO AND VOCAL RECITAL
TO GIVEN

Next Thursday's concert at the Helena May Institute consists of a vocal and piano recital by Mrs. Neil Mathieson and Mr. A. M. Bowes-Smith.

Mrs. Mathieson will sing three groups of songs: one set in German (Brahms, Hugo Wolf and Carl Bohm), one set by Darius, whose music is becoming increasingly popular, and one miscellaneous group in English. The singer will be accompanied on the piano by Mr. Maurice Barton.

The piano part of the recital consists of the four Scherzi of Chopin. These characteristic works, of which two, at any rate, are well known, are very seldom heard at one performance, and Mr. Bowes-Smith has placed them on the one programme so that they may be compared and contrasted. Programmes will be provided, at a cost of 10 cents, giving full descriptive notes of the Scherzi, together with translations of the German songs.

As usual, the concert will be open to the public, with an admission charge of 40 cents for members, 50 cents for non-members, children.

A POLICE COURT COMEDY

MIX-UP BETWEEN DEPARTMENTS

If Li Wan-kai could understand English he would have been heartily amused at the comedy which surrounded his case when it came before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning.

When his case was mentioned late in the proceedings, one lone prisoner remained in the dock.

"I ask for a remand in this case," said Sgt. Thorpe. "The man is still in hospital."

The Magistrate knitted his brows. "That's strange," he said. "A man who has never been before the Court and you are asking for a remand."

"Yes," said the prosecuting sergeant. "There have been two remands already."

SHOCK FOR SERGEANT.

"Wrong procedure altogether," said Mr. Wynne-Jones. "The law says that when a man is charged he must appear before a magistrate within 48 hours, or as soon as possible. There was no need to charge this man till he came out of hospital."

There was silence in the Court for a moment.

Then "Who is that man in the dock?" from the Bench.

Rapid words were exchanged in Cantonese.

"It's the defendant," said the astonished sergeant.

NO COMPLAINANT.

When the Court settled down again, Mr. Wynne-Jones suggested that the case might proceed.

"But we haven't got the complainant," said Sgt. Thorpe.

"Lost him too?" asked the magistrate.

"And Sgt. Fitches is not here," added Sgt. Thorpe.

Smiling, the Magistrate granted a 48 hours remand after all and ordered that the prisoner be taken back to the prisoners' ward in the Government Civil Hospital.

YOUNG CHANG IN HANGCHOW

GIVEN FREE HAND IN NORTH CHINA

ADMINISTRATIVE AND FINANCIAL

Shanghai, Nov. 14. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, who arrived in Hangchow yesterday, having made the journey from Hankow by plane, is holding a conference with Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, presumably in connection with the finances of North China.

It is reported that as a result of the recent discussions at Hankow, it has been decided that Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang be given a free hand in dealing with the affairs of North China, also that there will be no change in the composition of the Government.

On Marshal Chang's return to Peking, a military conference of all his subordinate generals will be held to discuss problems of defence.—Reuter.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CHILD VICTIM

SNATCHING INCIDENT AT SHAKUWAN

Sentence of six months' hard labour and 20 strokes of the birch, with an additional term of three months' imprisonment if unfit for the birch, was imposed by Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning on an unemployed Chinese charged with snatching a bangle from a four year old child in Shaukiwan.

Inspector G. A. Stimson informed the Court that the child was on an errand when the defendant snatched the bangle. The accused ran towards the seashore with residents in pursuit. When a Chinese constable took up the chase he threw the bangle into the sea and dashed up the hillside. He was subsequently arrested hiding in some bushes.

TAILOR'S APPEAL ALLOWED

NO EVIDENCE TO SUPPORT CLAIM

At a sitting of the Full Court this morning Sir Joseph Kemp (Chief Justice) and Mr. Justice Wood (Puisne Judge) allowed an appeal against the judgment delivered by Mr. R. E. Lindsell, acting Puisne Judge, in September last in respect of a case in which Ghulam Hussain, 9 Pilgrim Street, Yaumatei, a tailor, claimed $324.21 money payable from Mohamed Napir, regimental contractor, of Murray Barracks, to him for money paid by the plaintiff to one Ibrahim on April 8th, 1931, for the defendant at his request.

Mr. Duncan McNeill, instructed by Mr. A. C. Arcull, appeared for the defendant appellant and Mr. Leo d'Almeida, jr., for the respondent.

Giving judgment this morning, the Chief Justice stated he had come to the conclusion that there was no evidence to support the finding of the learned trial judge that the sum of $324.21, the subject of the action was paid by the plaintiff to Ibrahim at the defendant's request. The evidence spoke for itself and it would be seen that the plaintiff nowhere said he paid the money to Ibrahim at the defendant's request. Plaintiff had failed to prove his claim, and he thought the appeal must be allowed.

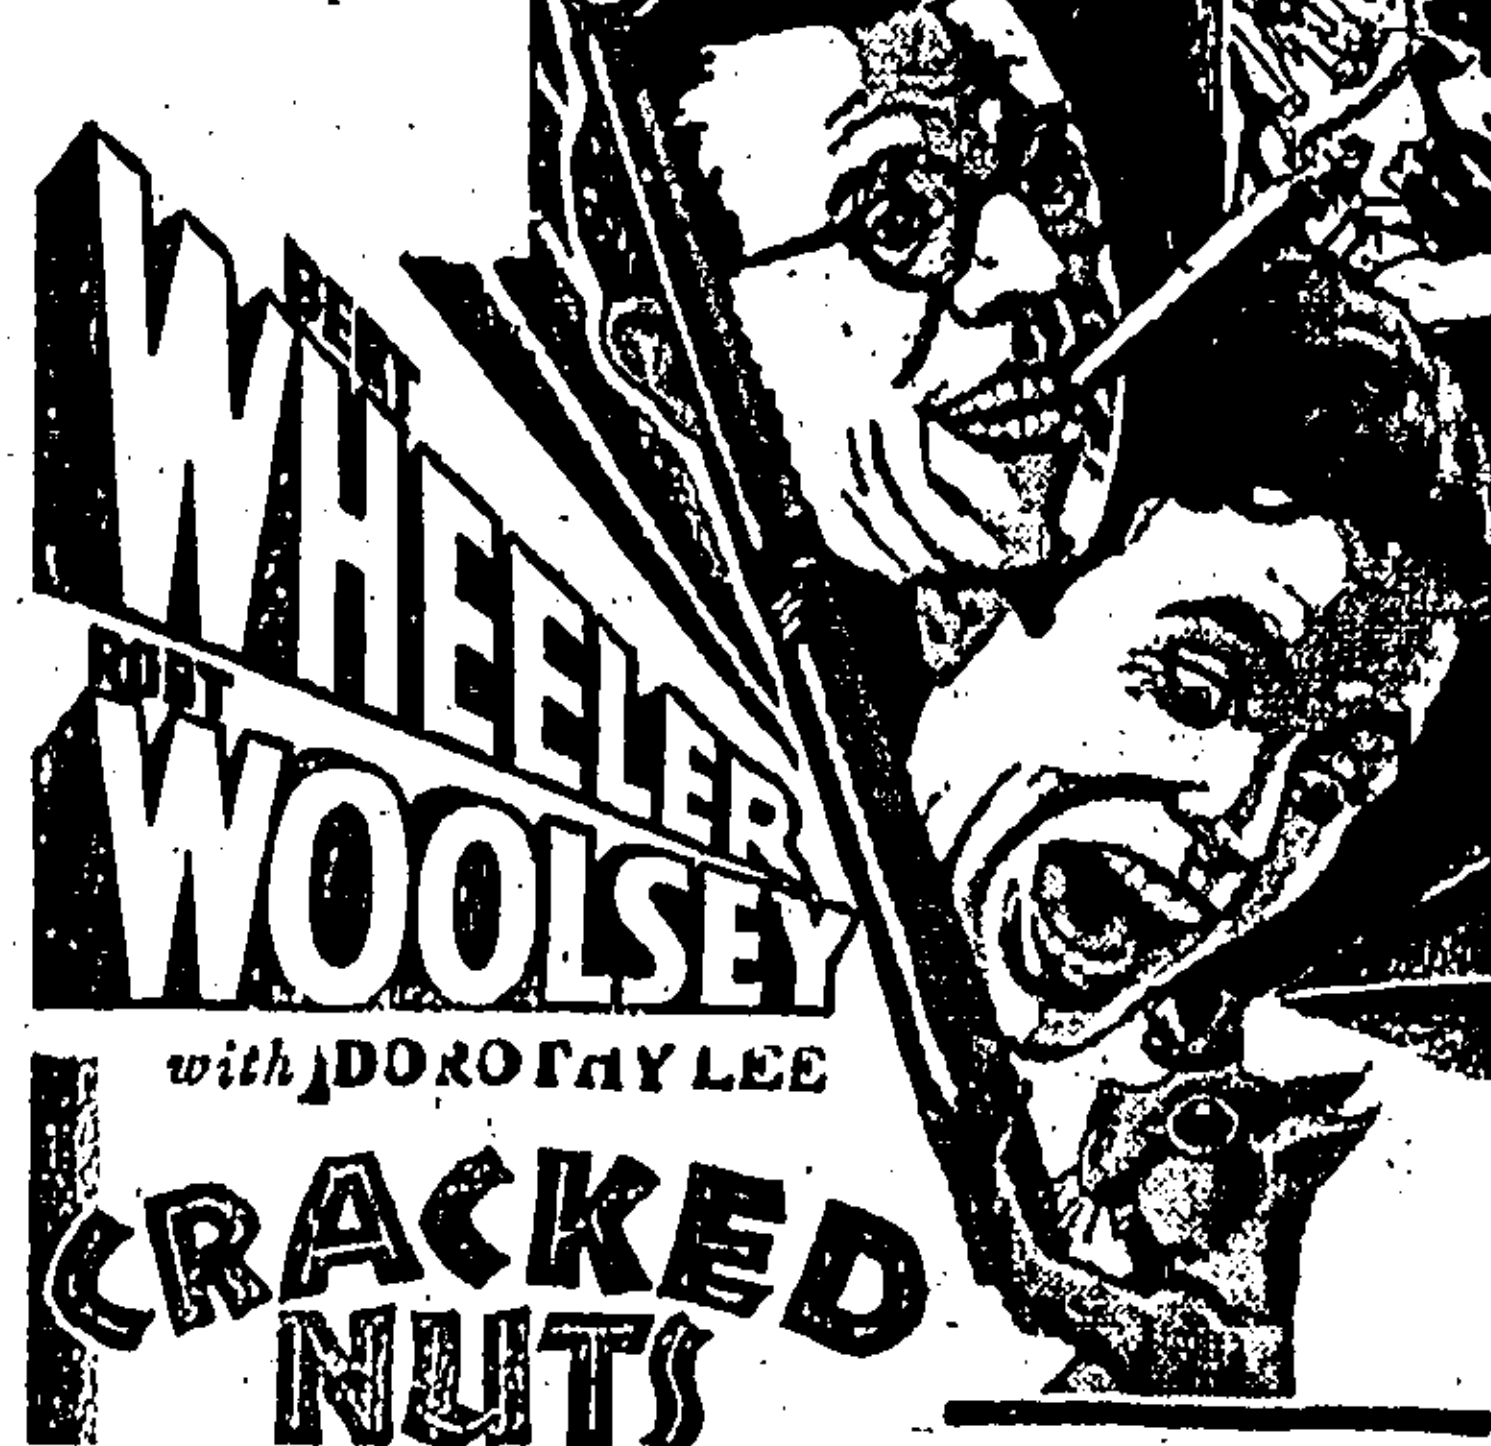

His Honour the Puisne Judge stated that without adopting for himself any finding of fact in place of the findings reached by the learned trial judge, he found that in this action brought in respect of money paid, the payment of the money by the plaintiff to the third party had not been evidenced. He therefore agreed that the appeal must be allowed.

The P. and O. liner Ranpura, by which H. E. the Governor and Lady Peel are returning, is due at 8 a.m. on Thursday.

HEAVY SENTENCE ON SNATCHER

KNOCKED EUROPEAN WOMAN TO GROUND

Wong Wai-chung, who snatched a handbag from Mrs. Walker in Salisbury Road on Saturday morning, was sentenced to 18 months' hard labour in addition to 24 strokes of the birch by Mr. H. R. Dutton and Mr. J. Balfour, who sat together at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Mrs. Walker was walking along Salisbury Road when defendant snatched her handbag away with such force that Mrs. Walker was thrown to the ground.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Bragg, who was nearby, raised the alarm. A Chinese postman ran after defendant and, with the help of an Indian constable, arrested defendant. He still had the handbag when arrested.

Inspector Elston asked for a heavy penalty because of the great force used and because of the prevalence of snatching cases.

Mr. A. R. Marden, of 19, Granville Road, yesterday reported to the police the theft of a handbag from his room. The article contained money, etc. to the total value of $75. It was subsequently recovered minus $50 in money.
